U.S.May Airlift Citizens

WASHINGTON AP — The United States is on the point of deciding whether to send chartered civilian aircraft to Amman in the immediate future to evacuate possibly 200 American citizens from war -torn Jordan.

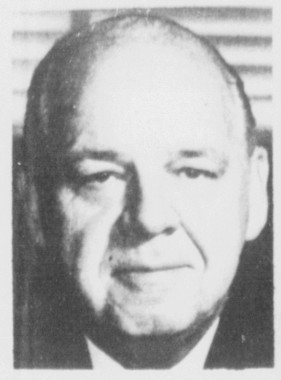

Informed sources reported that the decision is imminent — indicating it would be reached by some ttime Thursday.

U.S. citizens in Jordan, including wives of Jordanians, total around 400. Nine Americans flew from Amman to Beirut, Lebanon, today on an International Red Cross charter plane.

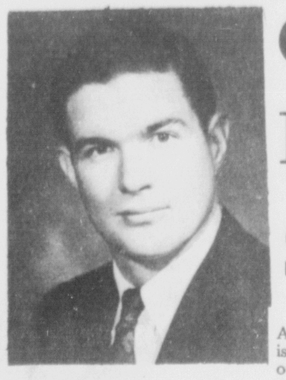

In the operation which the Nixon administration is now considering most seriously, about 15 official employes of the U.S. government would be brought out and private American citizens living in Jordan would be evacuated on a voluntary basis.

Corn Report Slated

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Agriculture Department will issue on Oct. 2 a special report on this year's blight-damaged corn crop that should put into better perspective how much feed will be available to livestock producers this winter.

Not finally settled, however, is whether the report will include new production estimates for individual states.

Harry C. Trelogan, head of the Statistical Reporting Service, told a reporter on Tuesday a state breakdown is quite unlikely and that the department probably will stick to a national estimate.

Normally, crop estimates—including state projections—are made regularly around the 10th of each month. The next for all crops will be on Oct. 12 and will reflect field conditions as of the first of the month.

But the special corn report—no other crops will be forecast—is evidence of growing concern among government and trade officials as well as farmers over the effects of southern leaf blight and dry weather in some areas on 1970 production.

Back in July the department expected a record-large crop, more than 4.8 billion bushels. But the August report, because of dry weather, trimmed the estimate to less than 4.7 billion. This was before the major reports of widespread damage by blight.

In this month's crop report, issued Sept. 11, the department lowered the corn estimate 6 per cent from August, projecting total output at 4.4 billion bushels.

Agriculture Secretary Clifford M. Hardin said Monday in announcing the special Oct. 2 corn report that the new estimate will be made because of uncertainty about the crop and cited a ueed for more current information.

Later, on Monday night, Hardin told the Southern Governors Conference at Biloxi, Miss., that the Sept. 11 estimate calling for 4.4 billion bushels—the third-largest crop of record—"does not tell the whole story" about 1970 production.

"Test weights were not taken into account in the September report," Hardin said. "We do not yet know the extent of damage since the September report came out. There may be extra losses in harvesting from shattering of ears and kernels."

Another factor—not mentioned so far by the government —could be how much of the Corn Belt crop normally raised for grain is moving into siloes as forage. Reports from some areas indicate farmers are being advised to cut infected corn as early as possible for silage instead of taking a chance on letting it mature as grain.

GAIL GARRETT of route four is the 17 -year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John D. Garrett. She is 5 feet 1 inches tall, weighs 115 pounds, is a blue -eyed blond contestant in the Miss Sikeston competition Friday. She is a Sikeston senior planning to enter Central Baptist College in Springfield, after graduation.

FLORIDA B. WASHINGTON of 1411 Washington is a candidate in the Miss Sikeston contest Friday. She is the 17 -year old daughter of Mrs. Jessie Lee Hodges, and a senior at Sikeston high. She is 5 feet 1½ inches tall, weighs 120 pounds and has brown hair and brown eyes.

Guerillas Reject Cease Fire

BEIRUT, Leabanon (AP) — King Hussein with the blessings of an Arab peace mission of proclaimed a cease-fire in Jordan today but Yasir Arafa, powerful leader of the Palestine Guerrillas rejected it.

The developments came as Radio Amman reported Jordanian troops supported by artillery and warplanes drove invaders out of the ccuntry and fighting persisted for the seventh day in Amman.

Arafat sent a message to President Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt saying the Jordanian army was still firing on the guerrillas in Amman and appealed to the Egyptian leader to stop it.

The 34-year-old monarch also said a delegation of the heads of Arab states meeting in Cairo endorsed an agreement he reached earlier with captured guerrilla leaders on ending the fight with Palestinian guerrillas.

The king appealed to his royalist forces to observe this new cease-fire strictly.

"I earnestly appeal to the armed forces and their great leader, my dear brother, Field Marshal Habis Majali, to strictly observe the cease-fire, to abide by the new agreement and start the operation of reconstruction."

Hussein spoke on Radio Amman shortly after the official station broadcast Majali's report that tanks and troops that entered northern Jordan on Sunday had been routed.

Just before Hussein went on the air, the leader of the fourman mission from Cairo, Maj. Gen. Jaafar el Numairi, president of Sudan, annouuced that the members of his mission "blessed the four-point agreement and appeal to both sides of the conflict to cease hostilities."

Numairi said he had met today with Hussein and captured guerrilla leaders and found both sides "responsive and willing to cooperate to end the current bloody tragedy." He added that he had not been able to meet with Yasir Arafat, the Al Fatah guerrilla who heads the over-all Palestine Liberation Organization. An earlier translation of his speech said he had met with Arafat.

A communique from Jordan's military governor, Field Marshal Habis Majali, said the Syrian withdrawal began at noon "and by 2:15 p.m. the last Syrian soldier left Kordanian soil."

He said Jordanian forces were in complete control of Irbid, the country's second largest city 50 miles north of Amman, and Ramtha, 10 miles east of Irbid.

If true, this would lessen the possibility of U.S. intervention.

Jackson Acquitted In Slaying

BENTON -- Leonard Jackson, 33, of Sikeston, was acquitted in Circuit Court Tuesday of the Aug. 23, 1969, shooting death in Sikeston of Willie Motten, also of Sikeston.

Tom Gilmore, prosecuting attorney of Scott County, said it was Jackson's contention he shot Motten in self -defense.

Motten was shot three times with a .38 caliber pistol.

A gun was found near Motten's body and it was believed to have been carried by Motten.

The jury deliberated about 25 minutes in the trial that lasted from 9 a.m. to 4:15 p.m.

Jackson was tried on a second degree murder.

Action Prompt On Campus Control Plea

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon's request for authority to send the FBI onto campuses hit by bombings and arson is getting prompt and favorable action in Congress.

Rep. Emanuel Celler, D-N.Y., chairman of the House Judiciary Committee, said the provision would be added to an omnibus crime bill on which the panel is putting finishing touches.

Nixon outlined his request Tuesday to Republican congressional leaders at a White House conference attended by Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover.

In addition to seeking expanded federal authority to intervene in campus bombings, Nixon wants the FBI's strength boosted from 7,000 to 8,000 men to help bombing investigations and also to deal with airplane hijacking. The extra agents would cost $23 million a year.

The administration's latest move to meet the bomb threat was announced by GOP leaders Rep. Gerald R. Ford of Michigan and Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania after the White House meeting.

The use of the two Republican leaders to announce Nixon's request aroused the wrath of Celler, who has been driving his committee long and hard in the past two weeks to get out a big crime bill Nixon has accused him of blocking.

"Why not communicate directly with the chairman instead of going only through Republicans?" asked Celler. "That's a hell of a way to get something out of a committee."

The administration sees law and order as a top issue in the coming congressional elections and would like to keep a GOP stand on any tough antibomb legislation.

OPERATION H-TWO-0 brings a gasp from Laura Doggett as she is dunked into a water tank at a stand at the American Legion Cotton Carnival. Looking on is Karen Smith. The stand is operated by the high school senior class.

Six Election Judges Indicted for Fraud

CARUTHERSVILLE, Mo. (AP – Six Pemiscot County men who served as election judges in the Aug. 4 primary were indicted by the county grand jury Tuesday on charges of election fraud and corrupt practice.

The indictments name Jake Halstead, Billy Joe Howell, Guyendale Potts, Paul Fowler, Jeff Northern and Herman Clark, who served in the Holland precinct.

On Thursday, Judge William H. Billings of Kennett voided the Holland precinct primary votes in a suit brought by five candidates who apparently lost the election. The judge's action and a vote recount made the plaintiffs the winners.

The Holland ballots were not delivered to election headquarters until 20 hours after the polls closed, instead of the two -hour maximum allowed by law.

Billings said "poll sheet, tally sheets and summary sheets of the Holland precinct all contained obvious erasures, mark -overs and changes in vote totals." He said because it was impossible to distinguish valid ballots from the invalid ones, all ballots were voided.

Gunman Kills 4, Takes Own Life

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — A State Labor Department employe reported for work as usual today, pulled a rifle from a box wrapped in Christmas paper that he carried and killed four women employes, each with a well-aimed shot. The he took his own life.

Police said three of the female employes were killed in a fifth floor office where the man worked. The fourth woman was shot minutes later on the third floor.

The gunman, police said, then went to a stairwell on the second floor, placed the weapon in his mouth and fired his last bullet. He toppled dead down the stairs.

The gunman was identified as Joseph W. White, 25, of Albany, an administrative analyst for the department. The women, all secretaries, were identified as Mrs. Sandra L. Peters, 24, a recent bride from Amsterdam, Patricia Chromick, 22, of Albany, Linda D. Willis, 21, of Waterford, and Mary Ann Reinsche, 27, of Albany.

About 20 persons worked in the fifth floor office where the shootings occurred, according to Albany County District Attorney Arnold Proskin.

Proskin indicated the shootings were deliberate. Asked whether White had fired indiscriminately, Proskin said: "No, he skipped some." Proskin described the fifth floor office as "a gory, blood-spattered thing."

Proskin described the weapon as a pump-action rifle of a high caliber.

A motive for the shootings was not immediately determined.

School Closing Set as Voters Reject Levy Hike

ST. LOUIS (AP)—Classes in suburban Hazelwood, Mo., will be closed Oct. 15 because of Tuesday's defeat of a 32-cent tax levy increase, the Board of Education said today.

The board set Nov. 5 as the next election date for the proposed levy of $5.54 per $100 assessed valuation, which also failed to get the necessary two-thirds approval Sept. 1.

A proposed levy of $5.66 was defeated twice by Hazelwood voters last spring.

Nixon Popularity Goes into Skid

President Richard Nixon's rating by Sikeston citizens dropped 13 per cent from 73 per cent last month to 60 per cent this month.

The random telephone survey was conducted yesterday and today.

Although 15 of 25 Sikestonians said they felt Nixon was doing a good job the drop in Nixon's popularity followed the trend across the nation indicated in the latest Louis Harris opinion poll. The Harris survey showed the president's overall rating on the negative side for the first time.

Nixon's popularity with Sikeston residents stayed well above the 55 per cent rating expressed by residents in the July poll.

The July Harris poll showed Nixon with a 52 per cent positive rating and a 46 per cent negative rating.

The recent Harris poll showed Nixon with a 48 per cent positive rating and a 49 per cent negative rating.

The main reason for the 73 per cent positive showing for the president last month, according to citizens, was the Mideast cease fire.

The main reasons for the drop in popularity this month, according to residents, are the recent hijackings, the unstable cease fire, and the economy.

Comments from citizens who feel Nixon is doing a good job:

"I still believe he (Nixon) is doing an excellent job and I have faith in him. Some people are blaming the trouble in the Mideast on the administration which is silly. He didn't start it and he had no means to stop the hijackings. I do think we shouldn't send troops in there (Jordan)."

"I think he's doing a good job but I believe he could do a little better on the economy. He doesn't seem to be doing anything about inflation."

"He's doing a great job. The Vietnam war, well, you don't hear so much about it anymore. It's almost over."

A person who disagreed said: "I voted for the man but he seems to be laying back now and letting things take its course. He's not taking any action to stop inflation or to cool down things in Jordan."

Asked why they thought the president's popularity has bone down, one Sikeston teenager said:

"Well, school has started and that brings groups of people together that have different views and sometime that causes demonstrations and riots. Then there are bombings like what happened at Wisconsin University and some people don't like busing kids to school."

Another Sikeston resident offered this unusual comment to the same question:

"Nixon hasn't been on television much lately and I think that has hurt him. Once he's on TV he can really get to the people and explain things to them and it makes sense. His ratings always seem to go up after he's on television."

RIGHTS FOR WOMEN

A few folk have taken strong exception to some of the far- our proposals of the so- called "Women's Liberation" movement, and we don't blame them. But just to prove that we are not entirely "square" - and that we are certainly not anti- women - we're going to take an opposite tack on a matter of current interest in the news; to wit—

The announcement has been made that the U.S. Army Reserve is going coed. For the first time in history, the Reserve is going to be open to the fair sex on an equal basis - well, almost equal - with the men. According to the official release of the Department of Defense, the WAC Reservists will serve alongside the 260,000 men now in the active reserve, in all types of units- except in combat or combat- support outfits. Asked what that meant, a Pentagon spokesman said: "We don't want to make women into riflemen."

Now just to be contrary we are going to take exception to the exception and ask: "why not?" After all, the girls will be required to go to drills just like the man; when the bugle blows they will hit the deck, the same as everybody; and you can bet that when KP duty comes up, they'll be called on. So why discriminate against the gals by not letting them carry a shootin' piece?

From our earliest colonial days, the women of America have fought for freedom right alongside their menfolk. The DAR records in Washington are filled with case histories of equality of sexes in battle, and if you don't believe it, give them a call. In a twinkling, they will tell you about Mollie Pitcher. Mollie's husband enlisted in the 7th Pennsylvania Regiment on December 1, 1775 - and Mollie went wright along with him. In June, 1778 in the Battle of Monmouth, New Jersey Cannoneer Pitcher- whose duty it was to ram the powder, charge and fire one of the two artillery pieces with the regiment- fell grievously wounded. Mollie immediately went into action, ramming the powder, charging the gun and blazed away at the Red Coats with devastating effect. Or the DAR will tell you about Mary Corbin, who also went to war with her husband; and who played a similar heroic role in the battle of Fort Washington, New York on November 16, 1776. And you will recall Annie Oakley, who could shoot the dust out of a gnat's ear at fifty paces.

Nope: if anybody starts shooting at us, we hope there will be a parcel of Mollie Pitchers, Mary Corbins and Annie Oakleys in the U.S. Army Reserve. This is no time for the Military Establishment to discriminate against women.

WHERE HAVE ALL THE MONEY CRISES GONE?

A modest amount of backslapping and self-congratulation was in order when the International Monetary Fund held its annual meeting for four days in Copenhagen, Monday Sept. 21. No major world monetary upheaval has shaken the money markets this year. The tyranny of gold seems to be at an end due to a clever two- tier pricing system. A complex system of drawing rights for nations low on reserves also seems to be functioning as planned.

Critics of all this IMF jiggering will of course argue that the day of reckoning for profligate nations has only been postponed. But the world needed a breather from the series of world monetary crises that undermined both currencies and confidence with awesome regularity in the 1960s. The Gnomes of Zurich are alive and well somewhere in Switzerland, naturally, but they are not nearly so visible or frightening as in the past.

Gold hoarders who speculated on a continuing rise in the price of gold have been the big losers. London market prices of gold early this month reached their highest level in nearly a year, but that amounted to only $36.35 an ounce, far below the $43.82 - an - ounce panic price of March 1969. The trick will be to keep the lid on for the immediate future despite inflationary excesses that put a strain on the dollar. European sentiment, reports the Wall Street Journal (Sept. 9), is that the U.S. dollar "is ripe for devaluation."

U.S. officials will try to convince the IMF governors that slowly but surely inflation is being brought under control by Washington. As the IMF's annual report pointed out on Sept. 7: "The importance of arresting the U.S. inflationary spiral and restoring price and cost stability can hardly be exaggerated." But the note of impending doom that usually characterizes IMF meetings will be absent- a sure sign that the experts have been successful in setting up a world monetary system that protects all against the follies of the few.

"THE LUNATICS ARE RUNNING THE ASYLUM'

So said Al Capp at the Tenth Anniversary convention of Young Americans for Freedom at Sharon, Connecticut, describing circumstancys at a few college campuses in our country today.

"The new lunacy now dominates the old ceremonies," Mr. Capp told the 500 YAF delegates, representing 50,000 students from all parts of the country. "It has made carnivals of commencements, so obscene that only the student hysterics and hyenas, the brawlers and the bedwetters, the muggers and the arsonists, the criminals and the creeps, can safely attend them.

"Some come to those ceremonies solely to stomp out of them, shrieking slogans from old editorials in the Daily Worker or from the sermons of William Sloan Coffin. Some, whose talent for obscenity has earned them the honor of speaking for their class, come to curse their parents, guests and faculty hosts. But the mindless and mannerless minority all come, in complete confidence that no matter how beastly their acts, how foul their mouths, they will be welcome and protected.

"Two students this year, more typical of the majority, didn't dare come to their graduation. They knew their colleges would not dare protect them from the hyenas, or even from being hurt by them.

"These two had committed such social crimes as attending classes instead of riots, and of getting married before they moved into an apartment together.

"But, most unforgiveable of all, these two came from families considered by many in Princeton's Social Science Department, to be more ill- bred than the Jukes of the Kallikahs; they came from families which had each bred a President.

"1970 is the year Julie and David Eisenhower were, in effect, barred from their graduations. It is the year Jerry Rubin and Abbie Hoffman took charge. It is the year of the lunatic."

Al Capp placed the blame squarely upon the "intellectuals" running the colleges -described by Capp as "the world's highest paid baby sitters." The university administrators who have allowed the new Hitlerites of the Socialist Scholars Conference and others to teach hatred and spread venom are directly responsible for the tragic deaths and destruction we have seen this past year. There are some who hope that we may be able to shame the academic community into initiating reform. But we doubt it. Those who have no sense of decency have a similar lack of capacity for shame.

FAIR BALTIMORE

The ghost of Henry L. Mencken surely is turning out reams of invective about the changes taking place in his beloved Baltimore. The Mencken house at 1524 Hollins Street- "as much a part of me as my two hands"-- is occupied by the University of Maryland's School of Social Work. Henry was no admirer of social uplift. Worse than that, perhaps, the gustatorial delights of the old Miller Brothers restaurant are gone, and the restaurant remains in name only -- in a Hilton Hotel in the city's gleaming new downtown Charles Center.

But the Baltimore of Mencken's day is not entirely dead. Natives still have a passion for crabcakes, live in red brick rowhouses with marble stoops, and call their city "Balmer." The changes that have occurred bear witness to the mass assortment of urban problems that were only beginning to surface when Mencken died in 1956 but are now familiar to almost every big city in America.

Baltimore dropped below 900,000 in the latest census and from sixth to seventh place among the nation's biggest cities. Of the residents who remain in Baltimore, 40 per cent or more are Negro. Little by little, older ethnic groups-- Germans, Italians, Poles and Jews-- retreat from city neighborhoods into surrounding Baltimore County. Yet despair seems not to have gripped the city.

About 30 neighborhood groups are getting together to sponsor a city fair, a three- day event starting Friday, Sept. 25, to "create a better image of Baltimore among Blatimoreans." Each neighborhood will have a booth where, the Baltimore Sun reports, a visitor may learn how to restore a rowhouse or how a community makes its streets more attractive, or -- if he prefers- to eat the special food of an ethnic community. Mencken would like that. "A Baltimorean is not merely John Doe, an isolated individual of Homo sapiens, exactly like every other John Doe," Mencken wrote in one of his famous columns. "He is John Doe of a certain place-- of Baltimore, of a definite house in Baltimore."

THE REALITY

Press reports of rising prices in the forest products industry hold far greater significance than most people realize. We are used to the steady advances in prices that are an inflationary fact of life, but, in this case, something even more serious is involved. As the American Forest Institute points out, "The easy assumption of an affluent public that management of the forests to supply timber needs is unnecessary and secondary in importance to exclusive use for recreation and 'preservation' has been confronted by reality."

What is the reality of which the Institute speaks? The answer is simple. There is only so much land, and, as the population increases, the resources of that land must be used judiciously and scientifically to meet food and fiber requirements, or there will be growing shortages and soaring prices. Currently 60 per cent of all the softwood timber suitable for lumber and plywood manufacture in the nation is on federal lands -- not in parks or wilderness areas, but lands which the Forest Service itself calssifies as "producing lands." Yet these lands now contribute only 3 out of every 10 logs that go into lumber and plywood. Thanks to modern forestry practices, the investor -owned forest industries, which account for but 17 per cent of the forest land, produce most of the nation's wood products needs. Production on federal forest lands could be increased by one to two thirds more, according to authoritative estimates. Steps are now being taken, led by President Nixon, to increase timber production on federal lands, and they are coming none too soon.

The reality is that we can no longer afford less than the best in forest management on federal, as well as private, lands -- and this means utilization and conservation as now practiced by major timber companies.

WANT TO LEARN?
YOU CAN!

Remember back in 1966 when Secretary of Defense Robert McNamara announced a plan to salvage some of the 600,000 men who were being rejected every year by the draft because of physical or mental unfitness?

The armed forces would accept 100,000 of these annual castoffs and attempt to remedy their educational and physical deficiencies and give at least some of them the basic education they did not get in school.

"Project 100,000" is now more than three years old and has involved more than 250,000 men in all branches of the services, about equally divided between draftees and volunteers.

The Council for Basic Education, a private, Washington, D.C. -based organization, decided to take a look at how successful the military has been in its effort to "pick up the pieces."

It found that 45 per cent of the men accepted into the services under "Project 100,000" are high school graduates, but only 20 per cent tested at 8th grade or above in reading, and only 7 per cent tested at 8th grade or above in arithmetic. (Which says something about the value of a high school diploma in terms of actual accomplishment.)

The Army is now giving about 20 per cent of these "Project 100,000" men a literacy course; another 10 per cent are receiving such training in the Air Force and Navy.

Eighty per cent of the men satisfactorily finished a crash reading course of up to eight weeks. The average improvement in reading ability is almost two grade levels.

Fort Dix, N.J., one of six Army basic training camps where the reading program is given, is a typical example. There, new groups start each Monday. The course is intensive, with six hours a day spent on reading, one hour on arithmetic and two hours on regular military training.

Most of the instructors are civilian. There is a combination of class and reading -laboratory work. The men are encouraged to read, read, read and are provided books, magazines and newspapers.

The attitudes of the instructors and the general atmosphere were excellent, reports the council. Each man seemed to be regarded sympathetically as an individual without, however, any sentimentality.

In 20 months of the program at Fort Dix, over 1,400 men had entered the course (90 per cent of them with a third -grade or lower reading level) and about 78 per cent of them had successfully completed it.

"We were favorably impressed with the Fort Dix program," says the council, "and with 'Project 100,000' as a whole .. It seems to us that there are some lessons here for the public schools. Most persons, in the right atmosphere, want to learn and can learn."

Hubby looked at the bill to tow his wife's car to the garage and asked, "Wasn't $25 a little high for that?"

"I thought so, too," she answered, "but don't worry; I got even with them. I had my brakes on all the way."

FINDING FUTURE NURSES

Frequently we are told that one of the most serious unsolved problems of medical care is the shortage of nurses. Just as often there is cause to wonder how much more could be done to interest girls in careers as registered nurses or licensed practical nurses.

Now we learn of more intense interest in Boston than in Memphis. The Massachusetts Department of Commerce and Development has a two -day Nursing Fair in late September. In the state office building there will be demonstrations of nursing procedures. There will be displays of all types of nursing education, including the baccalaureate degree which interests future administrators. Slide presentations will be available continuously.

What is especially impressive at this distance is the aggressive approach to high school juniors and seniors. More than 800 high schools across the state have been informed of the Nursing Fair, and some of them have released time for girls to make the Boston trip. Some schools are also providing transportation.

Memphis might import some of that Yankee attitude if it wants enough nurses.

THE BUDDING TEETH IN GUN CONTROL

One of the more popular bumper stickers has it that "When Guns Are Outlawed, Only Outlaws Will Have Guns."

Surprisingly, proponents of gun control legislation agree with the slogan — so long as it is understood that what they advocate is not the outlawing of private arms but the registration of them, just as we register all kinds of property from automobiles to sailboats to pedigreed chihuahuas.

They acknowledge that no law could keep criminals from getting their hands on guns. But simply because criminals would not obey a gun registration law, police would have that much more power to take guns away from them.

An example would be if firearms were discovered during the search of a premises for some other reason. The weapons, even if not illegal in themselves, could be seized if they had not been registered.

However, far and away the greater number of homicides and attempted homicides are committed not by criminals but by ordinary law -abiding people. Most gun deaths occur in the home and involve family members or friends. This is the area where it is believed gun control could be of greatest value.

University Hieghts, Ohio, a suburb of Cleveland, is one of a number of communities around the country which is not waiting for federal legislation.

The mayor recently stated that by virtue of his city's gun registration ordinance, he is convinced that in at least two cases potential tragedy has been averted.

Both cases involved police investigation of family fights and the confiscation of unregistered revolvers found in the homes, revolvers that could have been reached for in the heat of the quarrel, or some later quarrel, and used.

The ordinance will not stop either family from buying a new gun in University Heights and registering it, or from going into the next -door community and buying a gun and not registering it.

But the expense and bother involved may at least make them pause and think seriously about whether they really need another gun.

AT LAST, AN ALL-PURPOSE GRASS

A grass that can thrive in deserts on salty underground water, that can substitute for wood pulp in the manufacture of high -quality paper, that can combat water pollution while providing desert -rich Mideast nations with a new source of income — it sounds too good to be true, but just such a "wonder grass" has been developed by Israeli scientists.

According to Environment Action Bulletin, tests of the grass — called juncus -esparto — in paper mills in England and Scotland yielded such excellent results that one of the mills has placed a bid for the entire harvest of the grass once it reaches the economically profitable level of 10,000 tons annually.

Meanwhile, the reedlike grass has found other uses. It is employed in pharmaceutical laboratories, as dairy cattle fodder, in the manufacture of woven mats and other wicker items, in the production of plastic sheets and as an insulating material.

And as an added bonus, the wonder grass can be used to purify urban and industrial waste water by breaking down noxious compounds and destroying harmful micro -organisms. Waste water filtered through juncus - esparto is said to be clean enough to drink.

BOTTLE UP POLLUTION LITTER-LY

Oregon represents on a small scale the magnitude of the problem facing the nation in reversing the pollution of its air, water and landscape.

It is not the magnitude of the junk; it is the magnitude of our indifference.

In the interim before the biennial state legislature meets in 1971, a committee is studying proposals to ban no-return bottles in the state and to require a five -cent deposit on every beverage can and bottle.

"My commitment," said Gov. Tom McCall recently, "is to put a price on the head of every beer and pop can and bottle sold in the U.S."

But a similar measure in the 1969 Oregon Legislature was defeated by the combined lobbies of bottle and can manufacturers and bottling companies, who would have the state rely solely on education and persuasion.

A slogan of the National Soft Drink Association is, "Hands alone cause litter,' reminiscent of the National Rifle Association's "Guns don't kill people; people kill people."

In 1968, Oregonians emptied 210 million bottles and 112 million cans of ber, 18 million bottles of liquor, 12 million bottles of wine and unknown millions of soft drink cans and bottles. Also unknown was the number of cans and bottles discarded in public places.

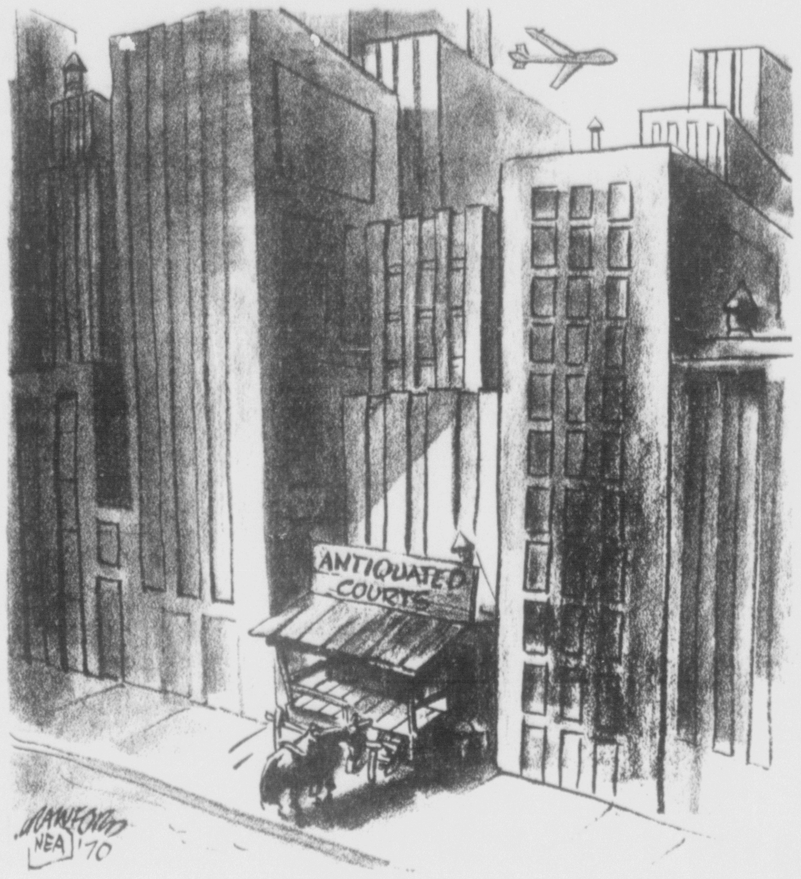

However, a clean -up of a one -mile stretch of popular beach last summer yielded 750 50-gallon drums of litter, 80 per cent of it beer cans and soft drink bottles.

There is no assurance that a nickel deposit will stop thoughtless people from messing up the environment, in Oregon or anywhere else. But it is certain that no amount of persuasion will ever do it.

The whole pollution problem boils down to this:

Do we really want to clean up America? Are we, private citizen and industry alike, willing to pay what it will cost — not only in terms of money but in terms of "conveniences" we now take for granted, from throwaway bottles on the local beach to throwaway sewage in the local river?

As of now, the answer is a resounding "No!"

Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP) — It is appropriate now and then in life to pause and take a look around— to see where you've been and where you still may going. This seems a good time for me to make a personal stocktaking, as this month marks the 27th anniversary of the date I began writing a daily newspaper column.

Now, 27 years may not be long in the life of a mountain or a redwood tree—but it is long enough to make a few dents in a man.

When I first unslung my typewriter in 1943 to right all man's wrongs and make a better world, I weighed 180 pounds, wasn't afraid of anything, could walk 20 miles in a day and my eyesight was keen enough to spot a can of meat and beans in a box of "C" rations 75 yards away.

Well, what's happened? Now I weight a waddling 200 pounds plus, and have all the named fears and a number that are nameless. If I walk more than 20 minutes, I feel like putting my arms around a telephone pole and holding on for a rest. To read a number in a telephone book now, I need the help of bifocals and two small boys holding lighted matches.

There is no reason for selfpity in this, of course. It is only fitting that a man wear himself out in the service of a good cause.

Two of the things I've fought hardest for—the retention of motherhood and the extension of the federal highway program— have done fairly well.

But three of my favorite crusades—the elimination of poison ivy, the return of the penny post card, and the selection of the dandelion as America's national flower—seem as far from realization as ever. My enemies are simply too well entrenched.

On a somewhat wider front, the world seems to be in an even worse pickle than it was when I set out to reform it little more than a quarter century ago.

We were in a war then, and we are in a war now—and perhaps looking around for more to get into.

The value of money falls . . . international affairs are in a muddle . . . domestic crisis piles on domestic crisis . . . yes, the world's in a mess.

But let me point out one thing. Since I started writing my column, six U.S. presidents have been in office. Every morning for 27 years I have dusted the cobwebs from my phone so it would be ready to respond to an emergency call by the White House for my advice. Not once has the White House called.

So I don't see how I can be altogether blamed for the plight we're in. One fellow can't make a better world single-handed—not even a columnist. So if we're to improve things in the next 27 years, we're all going to have to pitch in together.

I know I can count on your help, can't I?

Editor's note: Any reader wishing to join Boyle's crusade can send him a boxtop or float him a bottle with a helpful message inside.

H.L. Hunt Says

FRISK ESSENTIAL TO BAR TRAGEDY

It is becoming clearer with every passing day that action must be taken now to end the threat to innocent airline passengers before a massive tragedy occurs. Until some other means can be developed, it has now become necessary that no passenger be permitted to board with any hand luggage or bags without being completely checked. Luggage to be stowed would have to be checked for bombs, too.

All passengers should be required to assemble in sizable rooms provided for the purpose and undergo a complete frisk and search to ascertain they cannot carry anything aboard to do violence to any other passenger or to endanger the airplane.

In time better and faster means of preventing skyjacking or or airliners may be developed, but until such means are developed, no more chances should be taken on losing a plane loaded with 100 or 200 or more innocent passengers. Under conditions as they are at present it is only a matter of time until some maniac trying to hijack an airplane to communist Cuba or communist North Vietnam or somewhere else causes a tragedy costing hundreds of lives.

Seasoned observers warned at the time of the first hijacking to Castro's Cuba that if strong measures were not taken to prevent future skyjackings, no one's life would be safe. That time has now come. NO passenger is safe anywhere in the world as long as potential skyjackers are allowed to board airliners without being checked and frisked thoroughly to make certain they cannot harm anyone else on the plane. Washington Merry - Go - Round

By Jack Anderson

WASHINGTON — Five years ago, a White House task force recommended a major overhaul of the procedures for awarding and controlling government contracts in the U.S. Office of Education.

Subsequently, numerous efforts have been made to bring about the needed reforms, but the viscous HEW bureaucracy has managed to block virtually all of them. The result is one of the worst, if least known, scandals in Washington.

Last month, this column published the details of a confidential high -level HEW investigation which shoed that the Office of Education had repeatedly ignored the law in awarding its contracts.

We have now obtained another official document which shows what the education office does with its contracts once they have been awarded. These conclusions are even more devastating.

The confidential, 24 -page report summarizes the findings of an investigation into the education office's contract activities by the HEW Audit Agency. Dated July 31, the explosive document has been forwarded to Dr. Terrel H. Bell, the acting Commissioner of Education.

Here are its basic conclusions:

CONTRACTS NEVER COMPLETED

. So loose is the Office of Education's contract management that no final reports have been received on literally hundreds of research contracts. In August of last year there were 282 research contracts that had been financed by the government without ever receiving a final report. Some of these were as much as eight years old. Nevertheless, the Office of Education continues to award contracts to firms with overdue research reports.

. Some contracts are never formally terminated, leaving the government vulnerable to billing for additional, unwanted work. When a memo was issued last year to determine how many such contracts there were, the Bureaus of Elementary and Secondary Education refused to come up with any information.

. Virtually no effort has been made by the Education Office to keep track of government -owned property which was in the hands of contractors. An effort to find out how much such property was lying around, unaccounted for, got nowhere.

Seventy -five contractors refused even to respond to the government'S INQUIRY' AND THE Office of Education made no effort to verify the information that did come in.

Says the audit agency: "Our review .. indicates that some contractors considerably understated the amount of government -owned property acquired. Also, our review indicates that several contractors who reported no property acquisitions, had purchased property with contract funds."

Furthermore, the audit report said that "annual physical inventories ... are not being made, as required by Department regulations."

While the Office of Education had estimated last year that there was about $4.5 million in government - owned or government - purchased equipment in its contractors' possession, the audit agency came up with an estimated total of more than $200 million. None of this property was recorded in the Education Office's general ledger accounts, the report said.

MISLAID EQUIPMENT

. In addition, the audit agency asserted: "Contractors are being permitted to acquire equipment at government expense without the required determination that such equipment cannot be obtained from a more economical source and without the required written approval of the head of the procurement activity or his designee."

. The Education Office violated the law by making advance payments to contractors under a film program for the deaf. For this program, the audit agency said, "The program legislation .. does not authorize advance payments." But, nevertheless, "a $30,000 advance payment was made on a $69,150 contract with the Texas Educational Agency and the full amount of $22,749 contract was advanced to the National Safety Council, Chicago."

In commenting on this matter, the Assistant Education Commissioner (Leon Schwartz) stated that the contracting officials attributed the advance payments without the required approval to "exigencies of the program and inadequate lead time for the contracting officer." These, the report said firmly, "are not valid reasons."

. The Audit Agency devotes a section of its report to what it calls "Questionable Use of Research and Training Funds." The principal abuse here is billing the government under the heading of research and training for costs which should be included in the category of salaries and expenses. In the case of one $3 million contract with the North American Rockwell Company, all but $120,000 of the cost was charged to Research and Training Appropriations.

Commissioner Schwartz, who has authority over the contracts division, insisted to this column that the audit report's conclusions were "not that damaging."

He said, however, that efforts were being made to correct the problems detailed in the report. Among these efforts, he said, was the removal of Herbert Duffy as head of the Contracts and Grants Division. Duffy had held the job since the division was established five years ago to bring about the reforms recommended by the White House task force.

Ann Landers

Father-in law Corrupted by Dirty-mouthed, Dirty-minded ...'

Dear Ann Landers: About six months ago my husband's father went to work in a shop that employs twelve men. Apparently all these men talk about is sex organs and women. Since my father-in-law took this job his conversation is nothing but filth, dirty words, and rotten jokes which he thinks are hilarious. Sometimes he laughs so hard he can barely finish the sentence.

Sunday at our house, my father-in-law got going on the dirtiest stuff I've ever heard. It had to do with sheep, goats, chickens, dogs--sodomy and perversion with a little incest thrown in. When I couldn't stand any more I interrupted my father-in-law and told him if he couldn't think of anything more sensible to talk about to keep quiet. He became very angry and screamed. "

You have insulted me and I am leaving." He stalked out, slamming the door behind him.

My husband says I should go to his father and apologize. I don't feel I owe him an apology. How do you? Your opinion is wanted and needed.--- Madge of Thunder Bay Ontario

Dear Madge: I agree with you. However, here's a suggestion: You could have made your objections known by simply leaving the room. Do so, the occasion should arise again-- and it probably will.

Dear Ann Landers: If you concur, please say it loud and clear. I need some backing.

Every time I include a certain friendof mine she jumps up from the dinner table as soon as she has gobbled down her food and carries her plate to the kitchen. Once she started to take the plate of another guest and he asked, "Do you mind if I finish eating?"

I am well organized and can handle a dinner for six with ease. If I need help I'm not shy about asking someone to give me a hand.

This same guest wants to dive into the dishes immediately after dinner "to get them out of the way." I happen to believe it is impolite for a hostess to leave guests while she does KP in the kitchen. My wishes fall on deaf ears. Can you penetrate?- Over-ridden

Dear Over: You sound plenty articulate to me. Or is this your paper personality? If so, I suggest that you write down what you would like to say to this gal and rehearse it aloud. Keep in mind she's a compulsive "helper." To win your point you'll have to come on like Ana Pauker. Good Luck.

Dear Ann Landers: Add me to the list of people who never thought they'd be writing to Ann Landers.

I'm a woman in my 40s going with a man about 10 years older. I am divorced. He is a widower, a successful attorney, very charming, and attractive and I enjoy his company. Something odd happened last night and I'd like your interpretation.

We were walking from a concert to the garage when he suddenly stopped, bent over and picked up a penny, out of the gutter. He laughingly mumbled some corny cliche like, "A penny saved is a penny earned."

I said nothing but it bothered me. Why would a grown man stoop to pick up a penny on the street? I have never noticed any signs of cheapness in him, but this was a shocker. What do you make of it? ---Dim View

Dear Dim: Your friend has a good memory. He recalls when a penny bought something. I don't view this as a sign of cheapness, but rather a hang- up from childhood. I see nothing to criticize.

How will you know when the real thing comes along? Ask Ann Landers. Send for her booklet "Love Or Sex And How To Tell The Difference." Send / in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope with your request.

4-H In Sikeston Goes! Club to Elect Officers

By unanimous vote 30 Sikeston young people activated the Sikeston 4-H Club Monday night.

Mary Schuerenberg, a former 4-H member in Stoddard County, acted as temporary chairman of the business meeting.

Joe Ahmon, Scott County Youth Agent, welcomed the group into the Scott County 4-H council. The newly organized club will be presented their charter soon. Ahmon explained the function of a 4-H club and talked about the Sikeston 4-H club in relationship to the county, state and national 4-H program. He remarked, "The material used in 4-H is supplied by the University of Missouri so in a sense all 4-H members are a part of the University."

Bill Purnell, area 4-H Youth Agent, told about the activities of 4-H, the required activities a club must have and then gave varied details about other activities that the Sikeston club may choose. Purnell also introduced Mrs. Gerald Jackson and Mrs. Peter Myers, community leaders for the Sikeston club.

The program opened with a devotional led by Peter Myers Jr. The United States, Missouri and 4-H flags were presented by Jamie Christensen, Stan Polovick, and David White. Novalee Patterson and Lew Polovick led the Pledge of Allegiance and 4-H pledge.

Mrs. Roberta Rowe, Rainbow 4-H Club community leader, explained the various 4-H projects available and distributed a fact sheet. Mrs. Rowe requested that members indicate the project field that they are interested in so adult leadership can be provided.

Dick Cranston, a former Ohio 4-H member, now a Sikeston resident and an area engineer with Kaiser Engineers, volunteered his support to the group. Mr. Cranston will lead the automotive project designed for teenage boys.

Carroll Montgomery, New Madrid County Youth Agent gave a slide presentation of activities and projects from the clubs in New Madrid County and state and national activities.

Recreation and songs were led by Debbie Jones and Karen Burch, 4-H Jr. leaders of the Matthews 4-H Club.

Sikeston 4-H club officers will be elected at the next community 4-H meeting, Monday, October 5, at the Presbyterian Church.

Sorority to Donate Proceeds to Center

Proceeds from the third annual Beta Sigma Phi Card party will go to the Sikeston Child Study Center to provide medication for hyperactive children.

The Sikeston Child Study Center opened in 1969 at Lee Hunter School using funds provided by Title VI-A ESEA as amended by Public Law 89-750. The Center diagnoses and prescribes necessary programs of remediation for children with learning problems.

These children may have been labeled as "immature", "undisciplined", "lazy", or "careless". They often have histories of incomplete assignments, excessive daydreaming, excessive blurting out answers without being asked, and showing off.

It is now possible through early identification to provide proper medical and educational help for a high percentage of these children before they become hopelessly discouraged by failures.

Professional staff at the Center include Wade Bedwell, educational psychologist, Richard Giles, speech pathologist, Judy Bowman, reading diagnostician, and Doctors Joseph Blanton and Thomas Pinkstaff, pediatricians. A coordinated effort by all these specialists has produced good results that should help many of these students to become useful citizens of the community.

This Card Party and Children's Fashion Show, sponsored by the Delta Gamma Chapter, will be held Tuesday, Sept. 29 at 7:30 p.m. at the high school cafetorium. For tickets, call 471 -2370, or any member of Delta Gamma chapter.

Top Wrestling Events Set Here Tonight

Tonight the Lions Club will hold grudge matches like never before seen in Sikeston.

The Main Event will be a "Chicken-Wire" match. This is a no-time limit - no disqualification match between the Hair and the Mask.

Sons of Mississippi Number 1 and Number 2 will again meet Bo and Tuffy Taylor to decide who loses what. If Bo and Tuffy win, the Sons of Mississippi have to remove their mask and if the Sons of Mississippi win Bo and Tuffy will have to shave off their beards. To prevent either group from running out, the entire ring will be enclosed in chicken-wire.

The other grudge match will be Billy Walker and Buddy Chandler against Rick Neal and El Matador. This was the bloodiest match of the season last week in their first encounter. Buddy had to be carried away from the ring so we expect this to be a real battle.

Wrestling starts at 8:30 p.m. every Wednesday at the Sikeston Armory - Sponsored by the Sikeston Lions Club.

Central Mules Meet K-State

ST. LOUIS — Central Missouri State's Fighting Mules, living up to their pre-season selection in the poll conducted by Springfield as the probable winner of the Missouri Intercollegiate Athletic Association football championship seek their third straight non-conference victory when they play Kansas State at Emporia at 7:30 Saturday night.

Howard Mahanes's Mule Train followed up its rousing 23-3 triumph over Western Illinois with a 29-8 decision over highly-regarded Illinois State. The Mule victory over WIU became more impressive in light of Western's 42-25 triumph over Northeast Missouri State last Saturday.

Northeast, which shared the MIAA title last year, lost on the road as did co-champ Southeast Missouri State which bowed at Delta State, 14-8.

Lincoln University's converence debut may not have been as auspicious as veteran coach Dwight Reed would have liked, but the 13-7 triumph over Missouri Southern at Joplin least got Reed's Tigers headed in the right direction.

Missouri U. - Rolla stamped itself as a team to watch. Dewey Allgood's Miners showed good defense, especially at the goal line, as they downed traditional rival Washington U., 20-14, in the well-filled Jackling Field Stands. UMR may be even tougher than its 7-2 log of '69.

Northwest Missouri State lost to Kearney State, 37-13, and Southwest Missouri bowed to Central Oklahoma State's bonecrusher, 28-0.

In a solid slate of night attractions Saturday, Lincoln will look for its second victory at Bemidji, Minn., State and UMR will try for No. 2 at Missouri Valley. The Indians of Cape Girardeau will attempt to rebound at Illinois State and the Bears will try to come back at Pittsburg, Kan. and NWMS will play at Peru St. NEMS has an open date.

Vermont, in 1896, became the first state authorizing citizens to vote by absentee ballot, according to Encyclopaedia Britannica.

Imaginations have been known to run wild at times. After all, imagine the Cardinals winning the National League's Eastern Division and the World Championship. Imagine Cassius Clay boxing once again. But imagine Sikeston's football Bulldogs being 0-2 after two games. That's almost beyond the imagination of Southeast Missourians, although they were 0-2 two seasons ago before winning its final eight games and claiming a share of the Northern Division title.

Imagine that the Dogs once potent offense has producted only three touchdowns in both losses and currently ranks 17th out of the 18 SEMO teams in defense, allowing 72 points, one less than the 18th rated Delta C-7 Chargers of the Bootheel Division.

In the Dogs 24-0 loss to Perryville last week, the offense didn't cross midfield but three times. Even then it waited until its last possession to made a threat.

The statistics must have Sikeston fans wondering if the words offense and defense isn't a thing of the past.

Their wondering may cease Friday night at Public school stadium. That is, if they can convince themsleves to try the Dogs one more time and back the SHS crew as they take on arch-rival Charleston, who is unbeaten in two games, rates fourth in defense and seven in offense in the district, giving up 12 points in two games while scoring 33.

The Bulldogs are a victim of circumstances. Some even the most loyal fans find hard to believe.

It all started even before the season opened, when star running back Mike Shaffer was ruled unable to play because of knee surgery, and it hasn't improved any.

Coach Bill Priday and his assistants, Murray Sullivan and Jim Graham have been kept busy trying to keep an injury chart and keeping a full squad dressed for each game. No more than nine starters have been on the injury list, and the season is only in its second week.

Tackle David McClarty, the second biggest man on the squad at 215 pounds, will be out atleast two weeks or more because of a loose cartilage in the knee. He joins Mark Adams, David Evans, on the current injury list.

The Bulldogs still face the "meat" of their nine-game schedule, taking on Charleston Friday and then going to Memphis for a battle with White Station and meeting the Kennett Indians, Dexter Bearcats, Cape Central Tigers, Jackson Indians and Poplar Bluff Mules in successive weeks.

Imagine .... Imagine.

We'd like to discuss a subject clost to everyone's stomach ... especially Mike Shain's and mine.

It's FOOD.

We'd just like to call everyone's attention to the fact that the Babe Ruth League is operating a corn dog stand during the Cotton Carnival this week.

It would be a great way to satisfy your stomach and assist the local league at the same time, but don't miss all the other food stands ... They're great, in the words of "Mike Shain".

Support all your civic organizational stands this week at the Carnival and pay Bob Ralph a visit at the Corn Dog stand ...

SEMO State Will Try Again

CAPE GIRARDEAU — It'll be a case of once-beaten teams trying to get even on the season when Southeast Missouri State College invades Hancock Stadium at Illinois State University for a 7:30 p.m. football game Saturday (Sept. 26).

Southeast Missouri lost its first outing of the season last week to Delta State College of Cleveland, Miss., 14-8. Illinois State dropped a 29-8 decision to Central Missouri State College of Warrensburg.

"I don't think either game was a true test of the relative strength of the respective teams," said Tom Thrower, Southeast Missouri's head coach. He explained that in each case, the eventual loser was opening its season against a team which already had one game under its belt. It usually takes a team one game to iron out its mistakes, he noted.

As for the Indians, Thrower commented, "We have a better idea of who to play now, and we should make a better showing this week."

Thrower is making one major change in his starting lineup. Lance Brune, a 180-pound freshman from Cape Girardeau, will get the starting nod at quarterback.

Against Delta State, the Indians' starting signal caller was 185-pound Mark Calandro, a senior from Murphysboro, Ill. He played the entire first half and opened the second half, but was replaced by Burne after the Indians' first series of downs.

Burne played the remainder of the game, completing 10 of 23 aerials for 122 yards. He was charged with one interception. Calandro completed 5 of 11 tosses for 72 yards. He had two intercepted.

The Indians, despite the presence of a couple of speedsters in their backfield, Art Miller and Al Holmes, both of St. Louis, were unable to generate much of a ground game against Delta. They netted only 86 yards rushing.

Saturday's game in the 18,000 seat Hancock Stadium will be the first ever played by the Indians on Astro-turf. Thrower acknowledged this could help the Indians' ground game. But, he said, it won't be an advantage for the Indians because the Redbirds are as fast or faster than the Tribe.

In fact, the artificial turf may work against the Indians, the coach conjectured, since the Redbirds are accustomed to it and Southeast Missouri is not.

Illinois State is a young team with only seven returning starters. And, with the excpetion of senior quarterback Jim Petit, a 185-pounder from Clifton, Ill., every backfield starter on both offense and defense is gone. Coach Larry Bitcon hopes the team's inexperience will be offset by its quickness and speed.

Indian coaches who scouted the Redbirds' last weekend reported that Bitcon's gridders stuck pretty well to fundamental football, rushing 58 times while passing only 19 times.

It was also reported that the momentum of the game turned completely around early in he contest when, with no score, the Redbirds had a first and goal situation and failed to score.

"The scouts tell me that Illinois State blocks and tackles well," Thrower said. "IN additon we know they always are toughter at home. We're well aware we're going to have our hands full."

Southeast Missouri and Illinois State have met three times previously with the Indians' only win, a 26-20 decision, coming last season.

Farmer Establishes Himself As No. 1 QB

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — The Missouri Tigers have turned their attention toward the Air Force and have a No. 1 quarterback for the first time since Terry McMillan's graduation.

Mike Farmer undoubtedly will be at the controls Saturday when nationally ranked Missouri plays the Air Force in St. Louis. Farmer took charge in the second half of last Saturday's game with Minnesota and led the Bengals to a five-touchdown second half explosion that wiped out a 9-0 halftime deficit and brought the Tigers a 34-12 victory over the Gophers.

"I would say that, based on this game, Farmer deserves to be the No. 1 quarterback," says Missouri Coach Dan Devine.

During spring practice and until the second half of the Minnesota game, Farmer and Church Roper had alternated at quarterback. Both are juniors and have never earned a varsity letter.

Like Missouri, Air Force has played two games. The Tigers opened their season by beating Baylor 38-0. Air Force has disposed of Idaho 45-7 and Wyoming 47-17.

Eyeing the Air Force scores, Devine figures he must concentrate heavily on defense this week in an effort to contain the Air Force's offensive ability.

Devine had to overhaul Missouri's offense and defense during the halftime intermission in the Minnesota game. Devine took the wraps off of the power sweep and the option play during the 15-minute break, and the Tigers were an entirely different football team the second half.

Farmer teased the Gophers with his running on the option. He gained 46 yards on eight keeps, and Joe Moore, the nation's No. 3 rusher in 1969, scored three touchdowns and ended the day with 156 yards on 31 carries.

Besides Farmer and Moore, Air Force will have to contend with the threat of wide receiver Mel Gray, who ran 35 yards against Minnesota on a fourth-and-five situation for the touchdown that pulled the Tigers even.

Regular linebackers Nip Weisenfels and Sam Britts are injured and may not play against Air Force. Both have leg injuries and had to leave the Minnesota game midway through the second quarter.

Missouri and Air Force have played each other on four previous occasions, and the Tigers, defending cochampions of the Big Eight Conference, have won all four games. Last year's game was the only one that was really close. The score of that one was 19-17.

Missouri, Ohio State Penn State Favored

NEW YORK (AP) — The last time the Ohio State Buckeyes played a football game, they were caught napping. The result was a 24-12 loss to Michigan in the 1969 finale, ruining the Buckeyes' bid for a perfect season and knocking them out of the top spot in The Associated Press poll.

Whatever the reason—the Super Bowl jokes, the Rose Bowl talk, etc.—the Buckeyes weren't able to concentrate on football that week as much as Coach Woody Hayes would have liked.

Ohio State opens its 1970 campaign Saturday at home with Texas A&M providing the opposition and the Bucceyes aren't about to be caught asleep at the switch this time. Certainly not after the Aggies followed their opening 41-14 rout of Wichita State with a 20-18 upset of 12thranked Louisiana State in Baton Rouge last weekend.

The Buckeyes and gaggies met once before,with Ohio State winning 17-0 in 1963. It should be 2-0 after Saturday. The pick is ... Ohio State.

Texas at Texas Tech—The last time the Longhorns stopped off at Lubbocc they lost 31-22. They haven't done anytting but win in the 21 games since. Texas.

Stanford at Oregon—The third-ranked Indians let down somewhat against San Jose State after an impressive opening triumph against Arkansas. If they're looking ahead to Purdue and Southern Cal this could be an upset, but the pick is Jim Plunkett and ... Stanford.

Penn State at Colorado—This nationally televised game (ABC-TV, 4 p.m., EDT) could end Penn State's 31-game unbeaten string. But Boulder's 5,200-foot elevation doesn't figure to affect the Nittany Lions, who have mountains of their own in Pennsylvania. Penn State.

Kentucky at Mississippi—The Wildcats shocked Ole Miss and Archie Manning last year 10-9. Revenge is sweet. Mississippi.

Purdue at Notre Dame—Notre Dame had enough of Purdue the last three years as quarterback Mike Phipps guided the Boilermakers to three victories. Phipps is gone, and this game's at ... Notre Dame.

Southern California at Iowa—Tailback Clarence Davis, offensive tackle John Vella and defensive tackle Tody Smith of the Trojans are doubtful. The outcome isn't. Southern Cal.

Air Force at Missouri—Mizzou finally found a quarterback in Mike Farmer. It could be an explosive show with speedboy receivers Mel Gray of Missouri and Ernie Jennings of Air Force. But the Tigers have more—Joe Moore. Missouri.

Florida at Alabama—Could be a wild one with Florida's John Reaves pitching against 'Bama's Scott Hunter. But the Gators haven't looked too impressive. Alabama.

Tennessee at Auburn—The Vols held Southern Methodist's Chuck Hixson without a touchdown pass last Saturday. Tennessee.

Batting — Andy Etchebarren, Orioles, drove in six runs with a single, double and homer, leading Baltimore to a 10-2 victory over Detroit, the Orioles' 100th triumph of the season.

PTICHING — Bill Stoneman, Expos, tossed a six-hit shutout over Pittsburgh's NL East leaders as Montreal edged the Pirates 1-0 in the opener of a twinight douhleheader. The Pirates won the nightcap, 3-1.

Big 8 Teams Have Problems With Weather

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Rain, cnilly weather and soggy practice fields characterized some of the Big Eight football drills Tuesday.

Coach Vince Gibson worried that the difference in temperature at Arizona State might affect Kansas State Saturday night since it will be much warmer than the Wildcats are used to.

K-State drilled for more than two hours on the synthetic stadium turf, and Gibson said it was a good practice. "We're getting down and working like we used to," he said.

Quarterback Lynn Dickey spent the workout in sweat clothes. His bruised ribs were still bothering him.

The rain drove Missouri inside, and the Tigers practiced in the fieldhouse for the Air Force at St. Louas Saturday. Dan Kelley, a senior guard, was termed a doubtful starter because of injuries suffered in the Minnesota game.

Doubtful starters at Kansas, which goes to Syracuse Saturday, are tight end Larry Brown, cornerback Donnie Joe Morris and reserve quarterback Jim Bowman.

Coach Pepper Rodgers said the Jayhawks had a good practice session on their artificial turf, and predicted the game would be a toss-up, although Syracuse has a strong physical attack.

Colorado got off its swampy practice field and had a long, hard-hitting practice in the stadium which was in better condition despite two days of heavy rain. The Buffs prepped their running game for Penn State.

Oklahoma State worked out in the basement of Gallagher Hall because of the rain. Coach Floyd Gass said the morale of his team is high despite the 237 setback at Arkansas, and that his boys are "mad at themselves" for their mistakes, and "ready to play good football."

Coach Bob Devaney at Nebraska said split end Guy Ingles, who bruised his ribs, is listed as a doubtful starter against Army.

At Iowa State, Coach Johnny Majors stepped up drills for Colorado State, working his Cyclones 2 1/2 hours. Goal line scrimmaging concluded the workout.

Heavy rain also drove Oklahoma indoors as the Sooners readied for Oregon State.

"We just kind of walked through things," Coach Chuck Fairbanks said.

Mets Move Within Three

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A seeing eye-single that wove its way through Philadelphia's pulled-in infield, has the New York Mets thinking pleasant thoughts again about the final 10 days of the National League East race.

Tommie Agee delivered the ninth inning hit for two runs and a 7-6 victory over Philadelphia Tuesday night that pulled the Mets back within three games of Pittsburgh and left them one behind second place Chicago.

The Pirates protected their edge by coming back to knock off Montreal 3-1 in the second game of a twi-night doubleheader after being shut out 1-0 in the opener by Bill Stoneman.

Chicago was rained out at St. Louis.

In other National League games Tuesday, Atlanta trimmed San Diego 3-2, Cincinnati clipped Houston 6-5 and Los Angeles nipped San Francisco 1-0.

In the American League, New York edged Washington 2-1, Boston dumped Cleveland 8-2, Milwaukee defeated California 4-2, Baltimore bombed Detroit 10-2, Kansas City swept a doubleheader from Chicago 2-1 and 6-2 and Minnesota topped Oakland 5-3 to clinch the West Division crown.

The Mets were on the short end of a 6-5 count after Tony Taylor had tripled three runs home and then scored on a sacrifice fly in the bottom of the eighth for Philadelphia. But New York loaded the bases with none out in the ninth.

After reliever Dick Selma fanned Ron Swoboda on three pitches, Agee poked a squibbler that just made it into right field for two runs and the victory.

"The ball was inside," said Agee. "I was trying to hold up."

It's a good thing he didn't succeed or else the Mets might not have succeeded. A loss to the Phillies would have shoved New York four games back with eight games to play and just about ended their flickering hopes.

Still, three behind with eight left isn't the most comforting spot in the world. But Manager Gil Hodges still hopes. "Time never runs out," said Hodges, "until it runs out mathematically."

The Pirates took a step in that direction by taking the second game of their doubleheader from the Expos after dropping the opener.

Stoneman, 6-15, stranded 11 Pirates in the first game and started Montreal's winning rally with a leadoff single in the sixth inning. Rusty Staub's triple chased the run home.

In the nightcap, Bob Veale, making his first start in 15 days, nailed down his 10th victory of the season with relief help from Joe Gibbon.

Pittsburgh, locked in a 1-1 tie in the fifth, loaded the bases with none out on Dave Cash's double, a hit batsman and Veale's bunt single. Matty Alou beat out an infield hit for one run and Richie Hebner's sacrifice fly scored another.

Gibbon came out of the bullpen in the seventh inning and struck out Staub, leaving two Expos stranded. Then he sailed through the eighth and ninth to preserve the victory.

The Pirates, with a two-game edge over Chicago and three over the Mets, have eight games remaining, the same number as New York. The Cubs have 10 to play.

The survivor of the hectic NL East race advances to the playoffs against West Division champion Cincinnati. The Reds, warming up for that showdown, exploded for six runs in the eighth inning to overtake Houston. Tommy Helms' bases-loaded single capped the rally which included five walks, two of them with the bases loaded.

Joe Morgan and Bob Watson homered for the Astros while Pete Rose's sixth inning single enabled the Reds' sparkplug to reach the 200-hit mark for the fifth time in eight seasons.

Atlanta pushed across a run in the bottom of the ninth on Mike Lum's bases-loaded single to edge San Diego. The Padres had tied the score in the top of the ninth on Chris Cannizzaro's sacrifice fly.

Los Angeles used Alan Foster's three-hitter to edge San Francisco and regain second place in the West Division. Foster, who retired the last 14 Giants in order, drew a basesloaded walk to force in the only run of the game.

THE NEW YORK YANKEES have answered an unusual sports question: How do you "unretire" a number? They unretired Mickey Mantle's No. 7 simply by pulling it out of the glass case and putting it back on his broad shoulders. Mantle, the player (left) is now Mantle, the coach (right), and someday, he hopes, it will be Mantle, the manager.

Franklin Tops Scoring

The Southern Division, which has four of the six unbeaten teams, also has the district's leading scorer in Henry Franklin of East Prairie.

After two weeks, Franklin, has scored 30 points on five TD's with Terry Gibson of Dexter running second with a four TD performance and 24 points. Both play in the Southern Division.

Ed Slaughter of Cape Central and Rik Blanford of Perryville share the lead in the Northern Division with three TD's each for 18 points.

Dennis Walker heads up the bootheel division scoring with 14 points.

Cape Central and Caruthersville lead the district in defense, both shutting out its first two opponents, while Caruthersville tops the offensive department with its 73 points total and Cape rates second with 68.

E. P. Eagles Unbeaten In Tournament

CHARLESTON — The East Prairie Eagles softball team remains as the only unbeaten team in the Charleston fast pitch softball tournament, after beating Wyatt 9-2 in the battle of unbeatens last night behind the pitching of Jim Orr.

Tournament play continues tonight with the Charleston 442's, 5-3 winners over the East Prairie Chiefs last night, meeting Wyatt at 7 p.m. with the winner battling the Eagles at 8:30 p.m.

An Eagle win would give them the title, but a loss would force the tournament into the finals tomorrow evening.

NEW KODAK POCKET GUIDE GIVES TIPS ON TAKING GOOD TRAVEL PHOTOGRAPHS

ROCHESTER, N.Y. — Eastman Kodak Company has published a handy reference book for the traveling amateur photographer, the "Kodak Pocket Guide to Good Travel Pictures" (AC-19).

It gives tips to help people take the kind of trave pictures their friends will love to see.

Tips on what to photograph during a trip, how to get the picture no matter what the weather is like, and suggestions on how to take good pictures of any subjects are included.

In addition, the mini-book (3½ by 6 inches) is designed to fit in a shirt pocket, purse, or gadget bag. Tables summarizing information on Kodak films, flash explosures, and existing light photography are included in the 32- page book which is illustrated with over 50 color photographs.

Copies of the "Kodak Pocket Guide to Good Travel Pictures" are available from photo retailers.

Book Review

"Couples who fight together stay together." This is the observation of Dr. George R. Bach who, in a decade as Director of the Institute for Group Psychotherapy, has witnessed tousands of fights among the more than 250 couples he has counseled.

Hostility is a natural part of any healthy human relationship, remarks Dr. Bach, and suppressing it builds resentment and leads either to uncontrolled, vicious, damaging outbursts, or to boredom, irritability, and alienation. Therefore, the well-known psychologist urges couples to fight, but points out that for best results, the fighting must be fair.

In THE INTIMATE ENEMY: How to Fight Fair in Love and Marriage, Dr. George R. Bach and co- author Peter Wyden (former executive editor of Ladies Home Journal) demonstrate, with one- hundred and twenty- two real fights, the flexible rules and exercises for constructive, above- the belt fighting. These techniques, assert the authors, will lead to increased understanding, growth and joy.

THE INTIMATE ENEMY, which appears in paperback for the first time as an Avon book, was a bestseller in its hardcover edition (published by William Morrow & Co.) and a selection of the Book- of- the - Month Club.

Among the lessons covered in this practical and entertaining self- training program are:

*How to replace "game-playing" with true intimacy

*What to do about irrational "Vesuvius" temper outbursts

*Five warm- up exercises before fighting

*How to end a good fight

*Fighting before, during, and after sex

*"Creative snuggling"

*Making intimate living work.

Put your trust in the Lord. —(Psalms 4:5).

When inner tension and frustration builds up and when you feel put upon by others, or when you are tempted to make an issue of what seems to be a mistaken thought or action, stop for a minute. Relax and let go. Remind yourself that God is in charge, and nothing is gained by fearfulness, anxiety, fretfulness. Trust in God's spirit within you for the answer.

The Science Editor

Science in Your Life

Missouri Agricultural Experiment Station -- UMC

Six Big U. S. industries can clean up their industrial wastes at no cost, or even with a profit, using present desalting techniques, says Dr. Eric C. Boveg, in Chemical and Engineering News.

One example he cites is the cheese and dairy industry. In cheese making, 1.25 billion pounds of whey solids are released annually in dairy water. About 70 per cent is wasted and constitutes a pollution problem. Whey contains a high concentrate of nutrient, including milk protein and milk sugar.

A high protein food supplement could be produced with a market value of 25 cents a pound at a processing cost of only 10 cents a pound, Dr. Boveg reports. His study foresees a sales potential, including use in formulas and synthetic milk products, of as much as three hundred million dollars annually if all whey products are recovered.

Other industries that he says could make a profit by recovering their waste and thereby reducing pollution include the wood pulping and paper production industry, the iron and steel industry, the plating and metal finishing industry, nuclear power plants, and coal mining.

The sun's energy falls equally on two adjacent corn plants. Everything is the same for the plants except that one is a darker green than the other. The dark shrivels and dies while the light green plant survives.

Says researcher C. M. Woodruff, "That dark-colored plant soaked up more of the sun's energy and got over-heated." It was like when you wear your dark-colored suit or your light-colored one. This was borne out in research at the University's Sanborn Field recently where alternate rows of corn were dark-colored and light-colored varieties.

The two varieties had produced about equally under irrigation. In dry land plots the dark-colored plants showed the effect of the heat and reduced moisture while the light-colored plants survived.

Marvin Brown of Springfield asks about the cholera epidemic which has been spreading from the Far East across Asia and has recently invaded the Middle East. It has struck the southern resort area of the Soviet Union and invaded Lebanon.

Epidemiologists say the Soviet and Lebanese epidemics are part of a world-wide infestation of cholera -- they call it a pandemic -- that began in the Celebese Islands of Indonesia in 1935.

This strain of cholera is not easily controlled by antibiotics. It causes more serious infections and lasts longer than the classical forms of cholera. Millions of people have died of cholera since this new form started its westward expansion in 1935.

Untreated, this cholera kills 60 to 70 per cent of its victims. Intravenous (into a vein) additions of water containing biocarbonate and potassium salts replace the important body losses. With this chemical treatment and tetracycline, death from cholera has dropped to less than 1 percent.

A spokesman for the World Health Organization has said, "There is no danger to Europe and the Western World in general because of its standards of hygiene."

If you feel that the world is crowded today, you will get little consolation from the latest population statistics. If the population increases at the present rate, the earth will have twice as many people in thirty years or a total of 7 billion by the year 2000.

Most of us can imagine a world with twice as many people but more than that might be hard to accept. If the rate continued there would be 15 billion by 2025, and 30 billion by 2050. That would mean that less than a century from now, while some who now are on this earth are still living, the world will have nearly ten bodies for every one that there is now.

Reacting to such figures, the President's Council on Environment Quality commented, "Environmental quality will be difficult to achieve if population growth continues."

Your doctor frequently needs laboratory assistance before he can begin to treat your illness. When lab tests take a full day or perhaps even a week, the illness may run into complications before treatment can begin.

Methods of analysis with gas-liquid chromatography developed at UMC by Dr. Charles W. Gehrke and his colleagues have reduced the time required for analysis for important life molecules to as little as twenty minutes. Fifteen years ago such tests required 20 or more hours.

Constant effort by Dr. Gehrke in the Experiment Station Chemicla Laboratory at UMC has reduced the time and skill required for these tests so that a Doctor or another scientist can receive an almost instant answer to analysis questions.

Do you have questions about science or the effects of science in your life? Address your questions to Science Editor, 1-98 Agriculture Building, University of Missouri, Columbia, Mo. 65201. Allow several weeks for reply.

Council to Meet

MALDEN — There will be a meeting of the Bootheel Law Enforcement Assistance Council Thursday, at 6:30 p.m. at the Smoke House restaurant.

Retired Postal Worker Leaves College $21,236

A retired postal worker who never attended Southeast Missouri State College and never lived in southeast Missouri until about 11 years before his death has left the college $21,236.88.

The college's benefactor was George Joseph Scheidt, who was orginally from Chicago. He moved to Sikeston at his retirement because he has two sisters, Mrs H. M. Forgarty and Mrs. Agatha Lux, living there.

Scheidt died about a year ago.

The college received the bequest last week from a Sikeston, attorney for the executor of the estate. Glenn Cracraft, also of Sikeston. Dr. Mark F. Scully, president of SEMO, said the funds would be invested and the interest income would go toward scholarships.

At the current rate of interest, about one and half scholarships will be provided, Dr. Scully said, to give the money to Southeast State because he had always had an interest in youth and wished to help out the college serving the area in which he had retired.

Scheidt left his clothing,personal effects, and a collection of tools to the Salvation Army.

Harris, Portageville, $2,000.

Council approved work on Mill Street sewer line to correct a chronic problem.

Mayor and aldermen were extended an invitation to attend an American Legion Thursday when flag patches will be presented to the city police.

Alderman Bob Blom suggested the council consider needed safety precautions on Old Kingshighway west from Crisler Street to Highway 61.

After regular session, the board met in secret session.

GOOD NEWS FOR HAY FEVER VICTIMS -- AIR CONDITIONING

The hay fever season is ahead. For millions of Americans that means sneezing, wheezing, coughing, watery eyes and just plain misery. All this can be greatly alleviated by central air conditioning, the Plumbing- Heating- Cooling Information Bureau points out. Pollen and other impurities are filtered out and the air is dehumidified at the same time. Tests show that air conditioning can reduce the pollen count in a room as much as 98 per cent.

Doctors often recommend air conditioning for people suffering from airborne allergies and for heart patients who find excessive het and humidity a great strain.

About one out of every four homes being built today is air conditioned. Of course it's easier to have air conditioning installed when a home is being built, but adding it to an existing home poses no real problems. A heating and air conditioning contractor will custom- tailor it to your home, taking such factors into consideration as the square feet in the house, the number and direction of your windows the prevailing exposure of the house, and so on.

ST. LOUIS (AP)—About 1,200 lawyers are to attend today's opening session of the 26th annual Missouri Bar Association convention.

A speech Friday by Sen. Daniel K. Inouye, D-Hawaii, will highlight the convention.

Thursday, the lawyers will conduct their first general business session. On the schedule are talks by Missouri Gov. Warren E. Hearnes, Sen. Howard Baker, R-Tenn., St. Louis County Supervisor Lawrence Roos and Edward Wright, president of the Missouri Bar.

The convention concludes Friday night with the installation of Jack Oliver, a Cape Girardeau attorney, as president for the coming year.

Driver Charged After Accident

CHARLESTON — Eva Mae Harvell, 40, Charleston, driver of a 1965 Plymouth was cited for careless and imprudent driving - involved in an accident Friday at 5:28 p.m. following a mishap at the intersection of South Main and South Street. The Harvell car struck a 1967 Dodge station wagon, driven by Harris R. Halter, Charleston, in the rear, police reported.

Halter received cuts on his left leg and possible back injuries. Mrs. Harvell received neck injuries and a passenger in the Harvell vehicle, Marian Harvell, 13, had cuts on her right leg. All were treated at a doctor's office and Mrs. Harvell was admitted to the Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston.

Rust, Republican candidate in the 10th District in southeastern Missouri, said the rally is intended to demonstrate that "the vast numbers of American students don't use drugs, make bombs, despise their elders and desecrate the American flag."

Committee Okays Flood Payments

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Judiciary Committee has approved legislation to compensate farmers whose lands were flooded when an excessive release was made from Wappapello Dam in southeast Missouri in 1965, Sen. Stuart Symington, D-Mo., said Tuesday.

The dam and reservoir are located north of Poplar Bluff in Butler and Wayne counties.

Symington said the proposed legislation covers losses suffered by 52 farmers whose claims already have been established by the Court of Claims.

Payment for their losses is not possible until Congress completes action on the bill, Symington said.

Rep. Bill Burlison, D-Mo., introduced a bill in the House, to carry out the court-approved compensation and it was approved by the lower chamber July 7.

Vital to Pick Right Mideast Envoys

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON (NEA)

In a series of talks with men in and out of government experienced in the Middle East, it has become clear to this reporter that one of our major problems in that area is that too often we have picked the wrong man for our negotiations.

Today, for example, one of the top men responsible officially for dealing with the Arabs and the Israelis is an official who has been described both in and out of this government as follows:

He goes into discussions with his mind made up in advance; at least he gives that appearance. He is abrupt. He is impatient. He wants to tell people what to do. He is reluctant to listen. If he thinks he already knows what you are going to tell him, he turns you off and wants to know what you have to say that is new.

Now, as one observer points out, this style may work in your own office with the men and women working for you. But it doesn't set well with representatives of sovereign nations, however small the country.

In the Middle East, as elsewhere around the world, we are dealing with proud, sensitive, sometimes highly emotional people. Too often our officials treat them as one would treat inferiors or business antagonists.

Take President Nasser, says one man who has known the Egyptian (UAR) head of state for years. He likes personal messages and contacts with men representing personally the heads of foreign states. This type of relationship means something quite important to him. Heads of government who have worked with Nasser in this fashion have made headway. Those who depend on their foreign office and official ambassadors have come away baffled.

In dealing with explosive emotional international or nation-to-nation problems, the United States in the past has too-often acted as though the problems were purely technical matters to be solved with scientific precision. In fact, the technical part of the problem may be the easiest to solve and the least important. Actually, what is usually needed is time for building personal trust, recognizing the other man's personal worth and personal importance.

Once the personal relationships are developed and the men who represent the nations understand each other, then solving the technical problems may be much easier.

This reporter has seen U.S. officials fail at this in the Far East over a period of many years. A lack of empathy on the part of one man or another has shattered a number of potentially happy working arrangements or alliances.

A warning, however, must be inserted here. In dealing with Communist nations, headed by doctrinaire party men, personal relationships usually have no effect. But neither Israel nor the leading Arab countries are Communist lands. And their leaders are quite human and very much aware of man-to-man relationships.

This is why it is so important to have a warm man very close to President Nixon explore with President Nasser the complete range of his thinking on the Middle East problem.

EAST PRAIRIE — Judge J. Marvin Bryan assessed a $25 fine to Earnest Easley on a charge of peace disturbance in police court Monday.

Earl Ray Evans paid a $20 fine for public intoxication.

A total of 642 bowlers in the 1970 ABC hit for better than a 200 average for nine games in Regular all events.

Fairy Tale To Unfold At Cape Hall

CAPE GIRARDEAU — The Delta Delta Delta alumnae chapter, with the National Children's Theatre company, will present the fairy tale "The Chinese Nightingale" at 4 p.m. Oct. 1 at Academic Hall at Southeast Missouri State College.

Danforth Rules Out Debate With Chapman

SPRINGFIELD, Mo. (AP) — Atty. Gen. John Danforth, Republican candidate for U. S. Senator, says he will not debate with Gene Chapman, the American Party candidate for the Senate.

Danforth says either he or his Democratic opponent, Senator Stuart Symington, will win the November election, and he does not think he should give publicity to Chapman. Danforth commented in a televised interview on KYTV in Springfield.

The attorney-general said he thinks there is a bonafide conservative element in Missouri but it's not represented by what he termed the extremists views of the third party.

Chapman challenged Danforth and Symington to a debate Friday.

SPECIAL FEAST

LONDON (AP) — The Rev H J. Sillitoe, general secretary of the Society of King Charles the Martyr, says observance of the feast of St. Charles of England is on the increase in the Anglican Communion. More than 550 churches, including about 100 in the United States, hold a special mass on the anniversary day of the King's execution on January 30, 1649. As he has done for the past 30 years, Father Sillitoe conducted a short act of devotion and laid a wreath at the spot where the monarch died in Whitehall.

'Baby' Group Is Alive 'n' Kickin'

By MARY CAMPBELL
AP Newsfeatures Writer

What is a rock group like at the time it has put out its first record and that record has become a hit? For an answer, we talked with Alive 'n' Kickin', who, on the strength of the record, "Tighter, Tighter," may be typical.

PEPE CARDONA
Of Alive 'n' Kickin'

The six members of Alive 'n' Kickin' didn't have anything startling to say, not having had the experience of being a long-time hit group nor having developed snappy answers for interview after interview.

The group is thrilled at its good fortune and optimistically confident that that first hit record is no flash in the pan. Biggest changes brought about by a hit record have been in family attitudes and in money — getting paid $2,000 a night instead of $200 and working in places where they have to do two shows a night instead of four. But the group says it works to keep its act exciting, not relying on hit records to get rebookings.

Families no longer regard them as time wasters strumming guitars instead of making an honest living. Organist Bruce Sudano says, "I'd graduated college and they wanted me to become a teacher. I guess they felt what we were doing wasn't anything." Background vocalist John Parisuo says, "Pop music is all my family talks about now." Bass guitarist Woody Wilson says, "Ask my father six months ago and he'd say, 'My son's a bum.' Now my family likes me again. I've got relatives turning up I've never seen before."

Lead singer Pepe Cardona says, "The competition is so hard they thought we'd be waxing out years. They didn't know what we did, though."

Cardona seems the most determined and convinced of the group. He says, "Right about when the Beatles started making it in what those this as a career. Their movie, 'Hard Day's Night,' had a big impact on me."

Group members all are from the Flatbush section of Brooklyn and all were born there except Cardona, who came to Brooklyn from Puerto Rico at age 5. Sudano says, "Pepe and I stole all the better musicians from every group in the neighborhood."

They started in the music business because they thought it would be fun, found it wasn't all fun, but decided it was worth it anyway. Working in the Parisuo basement to put a performing act together, before the record came out, it was hard not to become discouraged. A fork lift dropping their organ was worse than discouraging.

But, Cardona says, "It seems our success was meant to be."

Wilson says, "At first, we played other people's material. But there is a point where we had to change and see what we ourselves had. When people listen to the Stones they don't want to hear them play Chicago. We want to get in that category, so you don't go to hear Alive 'n' Kickin' play Chicago."

The group numbers six — Cardona, Sudano, Parisio, Wilson, drummer Vito Alhano and lead singer Miss Sandy Toder. "Tighter, Tighter," the single that did it for them, was written by singer Tommy James. Sudano says, "That was so good it would have been a hit record no matter if Mickey Mantle had decided to do it."

"Tighter, Tighter" went to No. 5 on the best-selling charts on Aug. 15. On Sept. 12, when it had fallen to 78, Roulette Records put out a second single, "Just Let It Come," which entered the Sept. 12 chart at No. 84. The group is signed to Roulette for a year and a debut album, "Alive 'n Kickin'," is currently being released.

Cardona says, "I thought of Alive 'n' Well as a group name and our old manager put Kickin' in. We've been trying to live up to it ever since."

The second single, which they wrote themselves, the group says has a heavier sound than the first. Wilson says, "A lot of groups always sound like that first record," Sudano adds. "We want to keep changing, because we feel that is the secret of staying on top."

Cardona says, "We listen to all kinds of music, too. We're like a newborn baby, taking in everything."

Tom Was Lucky Enought To Save What Presidents Once Said About Equality

By DAVID LAWRENCE

The controversy recently about Judge G. Harrold Carswell's speech which he made in 1948 in favor of segregation - six years before the Supreme Court ordered desegregation in the public schools - prompts a re-examination of just what was said in public speeches and in utterances of Presidents of the United States on the general subject of racial equality prior to the Court's ruling in 1954. Here are some extracts:

Thomas Jefferson, in a letter to Francois Jean de Chastelleux on June 7, 1785:

"I have supposed the black man, in his present state, might not be in body and mind equal to the white man; but it would be hazardous to affirm that, equally cultivated for a few generations, he would not become so."

Jefferson's Autobiography, published in 1821:

"Nothing is more certainly written in the book of fate than that these people are to be free; nor is it less certain that the two races equally free, cannot live in the same government. Nature, habit, opinion have drawn indelible lines of distinction between them."

Abraham Lincoln, in a speech at Ottawa, Ill., on Aug. 21, 1858:

"I have no purpose to introduce political and social equality between the white and the black races. There is a physical difference between the two, which in my judgment will probably forever forbid their living together upon the footing of perfect equality, and inasmuch as it becomes a necessity that there must be a difference, I, as well as Judge Douglas, am in favor of the race to which I belong having the superior position.

"I have never said anything to the contrary, but I hold that notwithstanding all this, there is no reason in the world why the Negro is not entitled to all the natural rights enumerated in the Declaration of Independence, the right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness. I hold that he is as much entitled to these as the white man. I agree with Judge Douglas, he is not my equal in many respects - certainly not in color, perhaps not in moral or intellectual endowment. But in the right to eat the bread, without leave of anybody else, which his own hand earns, he is my equal of every living man."

Abraham Lincoln, in a speech at Charleston, Ill., on Sept. 18, 1858:

"I will say then that I am not, nor ever have been in favor of bringing about in any way the social and political equality of the white and black races that I am not nor ever have been in favor of making voters or jurors of Negroes, nor of qualifying them to hold offices, nor to intermarry with white people; and I will say in addition to this that there is a physical difference between the white and black races which I believe will forever forbid the two races living together on terms of social and political equality. And inasmuch as they cannot so live, while they do remain together there must be the position of superior and inferior, and I as much as any other man am in favor of having the superior position assigned to the white race...

"I will add to this that I have never seen to my knowledge a man, woman or child who was in favor of producing a perfect equality, social and political, between Negroes and white men."

Theodore Roosevelt, in his Seventh Annual Message to Congress on Dec. 3, 1907:

"Our aim is to recognize what Lincoln pointed out: The fact that there are some respects in which men are obviously not equal: but also to insist that there should be an equality of self-respect and of mutual respect, an equality of rights before the law, and at least an approximate equality in the conditions under which each man obtains the chance to show the stuff is in him with compared to his fellows."

William Howard Taft, in his Inaugural Address on March 4, 1909:

"The colored men must base their hope on the results of their own industry, self- restraint, thrift and business success, as well as upon the aid, comfort and sympathy which they may receive from their white neighbors."

Franklin Delano Roosevelt, in a letter to Cleveland G. Allen on Dec. 26, 1935:

"It is truly remarkable, the things which the Negro people have accomplished within living memory - their progress in agriculture and industry; their achievements in the field of education, their contributions to the arts and sciences, and in general, to good citizenship."

Harry S. Truman, to the Democratic National Convention in 1940:

"I wish to make it clear that I am not appealing for social equality of the Negro. The Negro himself knows better than that, and the highest type of Negro leaders say quite frankly they prefer the society of their own people. Negroes want justice, not social relations."

How many of the foregoing statesmen could be confirmed as Associate Justice of the Supreme Court today if their statements of earlier years such as the above were cited against them by members of the Senate?

BEAUTIFUL BLESSINGS

There's nothing so lovely as snowflakes in winter
Or the colors of Autumn that Jack Frost does bring
The fields of ripe grain waving golden in summer
Or the tender green buds of the trees in the spring.

The pretty white clouds in the blue away up yonder,
The robin the red bird as they fly high above
There's nothing so sweet as the smile of a child
Or the tender devotion of a good Mothers love

When we count our blessings as we look around us
We have much to be thankful to the Man in the sky
For this wonderful earth he gave us to live in
And the promise of heaven in the sweet by and by.

ONE STORY RANCH TRANSITIONAL: You could call his ranch sprawling because it stretches 35 feet wide through living room and dining area and about 42 feet to the rear. It sprawls 85 feet to the right and at that point is 17 feet wide then turns south at 21 feet for another 40 feet. This forms a U shape and creates a 27 x 23 foot open area in the center across a private wall for an outdoor living area. Four bedrooms are aligned across the rear. Three are serviced by a hall bath. The master bedroom has its own private bath. The exterior is brick. A two-car garage is connected to a covered passage which leads to the front entrance. Danforth Urges Voters to Force More Response

BETHANY, Mo. (AP) — John C. Danforth called on voters Tuesday night to help make investigation of the city Sanitation Co., fire which destroyed five of the company's refuse collection trucks. Damage there was estimated at $100,000.

The arrest came through extensive questioning of several suspects, all juveniles, and residents of South Cape, who had "direct or indirect" knowledge of the occurrences the night of Aug. 21, Detective Lt. Wm. W. Stover said.

Police indicated other arrests will be made in connection with the Leming fire. Several suspects, all juveniles, have undergone questioning by police.

State charges of arson or conspiring to commit arson cannot be filed unless the youth and others who may be arrested in the near future are bound over to adult court, Lt. Stover said. Otherwise, the department will be responsible for filing a petition in juvenile court, against the boy and others when they are taken into custody.

PAUL FLOWER'S GREENHOUSE

Just picture me, upon your knee, With tea for two and two for tea...

That's the way it started in "No, No Nanette," the great musical which played 321 performances at the Globe in New York in 1925. Now it's being revived by Irving Caesar and music by the immortal Vincent Youmans.

Ruby Keeler, queen of the musical movies in the 1930's now a sixty- ish grandmother, will do it again, and many of us will whistle "Tea For Two" again as we did when Alvin Coolidge began his second term as President. "Ma" Ferguson was elected governor of Texas, Gen. Dmdr. J. Rogers, U.S. N., made a nonstop flight in a seaplane from San Francisco to Honolulu, the Navy's dirigible Shenandoah was destroyed in a storm in Ohio, and the horse- drawn fire engine made its last run in Washington.

This was the year that Sinclair Lewis declined the Pulitzer Prize for his novel "Arrowsmith," and the whole world watched a court trial in Dayton, Tenn., as Clarence Darrow and William Jennings Bryan fought out the question of organic evolution in the case of John Thomas Scopes.

Harold Red Grange was football star of the year, and a new Madison Square Garden opened in New York.

None of these events can be repeated, but praise heaven "No, No Nanette" is being resurrected with the glamorous Ruby Keeler, and be it reverently hoped, "Tea For Two" will titillate modern ears long abused by today's crooners.

Youth Arrested In Arson Investigation

CAPE GIRARDEAU — Police arrested a 15- year- old Cape Girardeau boy for investigation of arson in connection with the Aug. 21 burning of the saw mill at M. E. Leming Lumber Co., in South Cape Girardeau.

The youth, a Negro, was arrested at Central high school at 2:45 p.m., after being called from class to the principal's office and taken into custody by plain clothesmen.

It was the first arrest made in connection with the burning of the sprawling $200,000 saw mill owned and operated by Mayor Howard C. Tooke during a frustrating night of destruction in the city. Arson is also being investigated in the City Sanitation Co., fire which destroyed five of the company's refuse collection trucks. Damage there was estimated at $100,000.

The arrest came through extensive questioning of several suspects, all juveniles, and residents of South Cape, who had "direct or indirect" knowledge of the occurrences the night of Aug. 21, Detective Lt. Wm. W. Stover said.

Police indicated other arrests will be made in connection with the Leming fire. Several suspects, all juveniles, have undergone questioning by police.

State charges of arson or conspiring to commit arson cannot be filed unless the youth and others who may be arrested in the near future are bound over to adult court, Lt. Stover said. Otherwise, the department will be responsible for filing a petition in juvenile court, against the boy and others when they are taken into custody.

Sensing The News

Continuing efforts in the Senate to halt or retard development of needed defense systems is a deeply disturbing indication of the responsiveness of some national legislators to pressure from anti-preparedness elements.

Know-nothing attitudes towards defense aren't new factors in our national history. After World War I, America's defenses were dismantled. As a result, Germany and Japan were able to emerge as powerful aggressor forces. The eventual result was the attack on Pear Harbor and a second world war. Neo-isolationism form the New Left could produce an equally tragic result within a decade – a third world war.

Today, however, there is a new factor in the move towards unilateral disarmament. Adm. Thomas H. Moorer, Chairman of the Joints Chiefs of Staff, recently said that "the most significant syndrome affecting our perspective today is often called 'anti-millitarism'," adding "I look on it as 'anti-common sense'."

Adm. Elmo R. Zumwalt Jr., the new Chief of Naval Operations, in an address at Annapolis, warned that "the concept of military preparedness is being questioned by an alienated segment of our population."

It is something new in our history to have an "alienated segment of our population." But there's no denying the truth of the admiral's observation. We have in our country today not simply a faction that disagrees with foreign policy but an element that hates America and wants to see it humiliated and defeated.

Good citizens find it hard to believe that some people, enjoying the blessings of this land, actually seek its destruction and the breakdown of its values.

Yet evidence of the existence of the "alienated segment" is all around us -- in the pathological character assassination of military personnel, in the fire-bombing of ROTC centers, in the funding of underground papers on defense bases, and in the praise the New Left lavishes on revolutionary movements and the cult of violence.

A few years ago, the extremists seemed a mere handful. Today, the disaffected element clearly is of considerable size. With the active encouragement of elements in the news media, especially the TV networks, the "alienated" have strengthened their position. Evening newscasts may bring interviews with those who openly boast of resisting their country and opposing its lawful orders. Sympathetic publicity is lavished on those who refuse to fight or who, overnight, declare themselves to be conscientious objectors.

The situation in Congress, with respect to defense appropriations, is serious indeed. But it is not half as serious as the situation involving the "alienated segment." Today, the country faces a grave loyalty issue. No nation can long survive if loyalty is not emphasized and if disloyalty is punished.

We have heard much in recent years about the "right" to dissent, but there is a great deal of opposition to national defense these days which cannot be described simply as "dissent." The only word for it is disloyalty, for the objective of the opponents of defense measures is the weakening of the United States and its transformation into a second or third-rank world power. The American people cannot afford to be naive about the current wave of disloyalty, for their lives -- and the future of our country and governmental system -- are at stake.

As Vice President Agnew has pointed out on numerous occasions, the nation has a grave problem with an effete intelligentsia that controls communications in many of our metropolitan centers. This same intelligentsia has come to dominate many of our public and private educational institutions and to re-orient the thingking of young intellectuals in the direction of defeatism and nihilism.

The defense issue of our time covers a broad spectrum of problems. We have a severe problem with respect to defense equipment. While America acquires new surface ships, submarines, aircraft and missiles at a slow rate, the Soviets are augmenting their armed forces as rapidly as possible. But that's only part of our national defense problem. Even more important is the matter of national morale. Defeatism and nihilism must be eradicated from our country if the United States is to endure as a strong free nation. This our No. 1 task.

The whale shark is the world's biggest fish. The 40-foot monsters feed on microscopic plankton and tiny fishes.

Federal Power Against Campus Terrorism Asked

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon urged Congress to authorize immediate federal intervention in cases of bombings or arson on virtually any college campus and recommended the hiring of an additional 1,000 FBI agents to do the job.

Nixon's new move was announced at a White House briefing by Republican congressional leaders after they had met for nearly three hours with the President, Atty. Gen. John N. Mitchell and Director J. Edgar Hoover of the Federal Bureau of Investigation.

As described to newsmen, the legislation proposed to Congress would trigger instant federal intervention when bombings, arson and terrorist acts affect a college or university receiving federal assistance. That includes virtually all institutions of higher learning.

Nixon proposed that the FBI add 1,000 agents to deal with campus outbreaks of the sort involved and to assist in programs aimed at thwarting aerial hijacking. The FBI now has about 7,000 agents.

House GOP Leader Gerald Ford of Michigan quoted Hoover as reporting that the organization Students for a Democratic Society was directly involved in 247 arson cases and 462 personal injury incidents in the past academic year. He said these were in addition to about 300 other episodes of destruction of other facilities or property.

Ford, predicting congressional enactment of the legislation, declared, "I think it will have a beneficial effect."

He said instances of campus terrorism "have increased in number, tempo and seriousness" and thusptmpted Nixon's recommendation.

Ford and Senate Republican Leader Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania told reporters that, under terms of the legislation, federal agents would move onto campuses in bombing and arson cases even if they were requested to stay away by college administrators.

The recommendation would be added to a pending bill aimed primarily at organized crime.

Best Keepers

JOHN GOULD
in the Christian Science Monitor

LISBON FALLS, MAINE

A favorite neighbor over on the back road, Dorothy Keith, celebrated April 1 by bringing me a piece of Ben Davis apple pie. It is a sort of drawn -out joke, because it was long years ago Dottie said she would do this, "... if I can find any Ben Davises." Her purpose was to prove that a Ben Davis, in spite of my disparagements, would make a good pie if lovingly compounded, so I said I hoped she never found any. But last fall she and Elmer were driving over in the next town, and she spied a Ben Davis tree and made Elmer climb up and steal enough for my pie. Such a theft, I might add, could only amuse the owner.

The only good thing any nursery catalog ever said about the Ben Davis is, "Best keeper known." The date of April 1 is thus significant, because by now all respectable apples would have waned, and only the Ben Davis would have strength enough to pass through an oven. It lacked the enzymes, or something, which led to desuetude. That such an apple can make "a good pie" is remarkable mostly because it is still around to make one, and I do admit that Dorothy's pie was excellent. The crust in particular — and good crust isn't easy.

The Ben Davis is one of some 200 apple varieties listed in the books, and most of them are long gone commercially, but before World War I the Ben Davis was Maine's leading apple, and we enjoyed a tremendous export sale to the British Isles. Boatloads left Portland for Liverpool and Southampton, until Maine people were sure British taste was odd. But it was said that the sea voyage improved the flavor, and my grandfather, used to say, "Wouldn't wonder, it couldn't hurt it none." An uncle used to point out that you never saw a worm in a Ben Davis — proving there are no foolish worms.

But when the nations began trading again after the war, the irrigated orchards of the western states, and other American and Canadian apple areas, introduced the British to new varieties. Very suddenly, Maine had no market, and Ben Davis apples hung on every bough. We had almost no apple business at all until new orchards were planted and grown, and we could supply McIntosh, Delicious, and such favored names.

In the meantime, we turned to the can shop, and for quite some time we worked off our worthless Ben Davis apples by packing them in No. 10 cans for the bakery trade. Any restaurant pie in those days was quite likely made from Maine Ben Davis apples — and I've always believed this explains the perversion of cinnamon and other additives found in the American prefab apple pie. A good apple doesn't need perking up, but the Ben Davis called for perking and it became traditional in cookery.

The canning factory for apples was an interesting business. The can companies had a system of leasing the few essential machines, so a man didn't need much capital to start. If he had enough to cover his payroll for a couple of weeks, and to make some down payments on "stumpage," he could be in business. The Ben Davis, hanging by the unwanted mile in Maine orchards, came cheap, and the harvesting was no problem.

Any pomologist will show you that an egg will bruise an apple if they bump, and gathering McIntosh apples is a gentle process. But you can play a nine -inning baseball game with a Ben Davis and still put it in a can, so these factory men were forthright. With hooks on poles, the trees were shaken, and the fruit picked up by boys and dumped into barrels. At the factory the barrels were tipped into the bin, and a man with a rake kept the apples moving down a flat belt toward the coring and paring machines. A flock of girls with kitchen knives quartered the pared fruit, and the belt continued on to the cans. Each can got a squirt of hot sugar water, and the closing machine and the retort did the rest.

Every such shop sent carloads every day on the down trains. The labels were hardly helpful — in those days the label was that of the buyer, not the packer, and a single day's pack could show up in two dozen brokerages with two dozen labels. The parings and cores were pressed out for sweet cider, or for pickle -factory vinegar, and farmers came around to haul off the "pummy" as cattle feed. The poor orchardist didn't make much, but there was still a penny in the Ben Davis.

The length of time it took Dot Keith to find some Ben Davises shows how things have gone. Hers may very well be the last Ben Davis pie. I thought about this as I ate it, and eating the Ben Davis into extinction is something my grandfather would have considered unlikely. He made a lot of money cramming them into barrels and hauling them to the team track. He used to fill the barrel, and "deacon" the top layer, after which he used a screw -down barrel header to force thee cover in. This squeezed the apples mercilessly, but it kept them from rattling in transit, and being Ben Davises they didn't care. I still have our old barrel header. Somewhere.

IS YOUR CAR CRABBY

Have you ever driven behind a car that seemed to be turning left (or right) but was still moving ahead down the road?

This is known as "crabbing," named for the walking style of the famous crustacean. The crab is designed to move this way; the automobile is not.

A car with this bad habit probably has been in an accident that has knocked the frame or the body, or both, out of line. The front wheels may be several inches to the left or right of the rear wheels, which is what creates the crab- like illusion.

The driver of a crabbing car is likely to be fighting the wheel. His tires are almost certainly scrubbing off rubber like an eraser on sandpaper.

A professional job of frame repair can eliminate virtually all traces of the impact that caused the problem. This will involve special tools and equipment- available in most modern autobody repair shops - to straighten the twist or bend.

A less obvious but sometimes equally serious form of crabbing comes from misaligned wheels. In this case, the car's front wheels are where they belong in relationship to the rear; so the car tracks properly and doesn't appear to have its alignment problem. Nevertheless, the front wheels are askew.

Depending on how far out of alignment the wheels are, the driver may or may not be able to feel the pull. Power steering tends to cover up a lot of steering trouble. Finger- light pressure on the steering wheel is all you need to correct what may be a pretty strong tendency to pull to one side or another.

But take your finger off the steering wheel for one minute, and the car may head for the adjacent lane of traffic- or the sidewalk.

Symptons vary. In addition to pulling, the car may wander, shimmy or sotherwise steer poorly. By the time you notice the excessive tire wear caused by misaligned wheels, you may have already ruined a couple.

If vou've been noticing that your car seems to be heading slightly to the east when the road goes due north, check in for a checkup. You may have a crabbing problem.

Soviets Are Adding Another Empire

ERNEST CUNEO in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat

WASHINGTON — The United States has expressed concern over the Soviet landing of arms in Libya.

A glance at the acceleration in the Russian timetable reveals even more than a study of the map. Immediately after the United States State Department announced that it was "impartial" in the Israeli -Arab hostilities, Moscow moved the Red Air Force into Egypt.

When the United States turned over the gigantic Wheelus Air Base in Libya to the Russians on June 30, that very night Russia moved up her latest low -range missiles to the Suez Canal. Simultaneously, the Russian Air Force under Russian command, assumed full responsibility for the defense of Egypt by air.

On July 4, American -Libyan oil distributing companies in Libya were nationalized (i.e., confiscated).

Also, simultaneously, the Moscow -oriented Algerian government notified Paris that the French oil companies' taxes would be raised 50 per cent retroactively and Russian naval experts descended on the tremendous naval base at Mers -El -Kabir, which had been turned over to Algeria by Paris.

THE NORTH AFRICAN oil fields send Europe 4 million barrels per day, slightly more than 40 per cent of its necessary supply.

It will be noted, therefore, that the immediate thrust of Russian arms into the Middle East is to secure domination of the African oil fields while maintaining land pressure to the north in Israel, and that it is moving at a fast pace. Simultaneously, Russia is exerting great effort to open the Suez Canal.

In anticipation of such an opening, Russia has built air complexes along the Red Sea and maintains a Red Navy flotilla in the Indian Ocean.

On opening of the Suez Canal, Russia will have the strongest naval presence in the three seas surrounding the Arabian peninsula, including the Persian Gulf. From these eastern oil fields, the remaining 45 per cent of European oil requirements — about 4.5 million barrels a day — make their way around the Cape of Good Hope in giant tankers.

Currently, Russia is courting Madagascar for the right to a naval base. Madagascar, of course, controls the Mozambique channel through which the great tankers pass.

Moscow has also asked the Malayan government for rental of the Singapore naval base when it is vacated by the British next year, key to the eastern approaches of the Indian Ocean.

The new London government has answered by indicating that it does not intend to vacate Singapore next year, and by sending artillery to the apartheid government in South Africa to defend the approaches of the Cape, to the anguish of liberals everywhere. Further, London declares that it intends to linger in the Persian Gulf.

The British foreign secretary conferred last week with the Shah of Iran on a defense alliance for the Persian Gulf. Red -dominated Iraq is howling with rage. It has massed on the Kuwait border and is fomenting disorder in the tiny but croesus-rich oil shiekdom.

THE REASON LONDON is deeply stirred is that the British need the oil money as much as they need the oil. The Kuwait deposits in London are a mighty factor behind the worth of the British pound.

From this, it appears that while the Israeli -Arab war is the excuse, the real objective of the Kremlin is not the destruction of Israel but the acquisition of the old Ottoman Empire, i.e., the Arab states and their fabulous oil reserves.

It further follows that the target of the Kremlin is not Israel, but the United States, which is the only power capable of denying it this vast new acquisition.

Russia already has half of the Hohenzollern Empire, and all of the Czar's and all of the Hapsburg empires, except Yugoslavia. If it obtains the Ottoman Empire, it will be the greatest empire in world history.

As Hitler from the north crashed the Maginot Line by land, the Kremlin is flanking the European land defense from the South, by sea and by diplomacy. With control of Europe's oil, Europe will be in a poor bargaining position indeed and, of course, the Kremlin knows bargaining well.

K.C. Department Stoe Closes

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Kline's, one of Kansas City's large department stores with outlets in the downtown business district and two of the city's major shopping centers, closed permanently at the end of business Tuesday.

Isadore Newman II, president of City Stores Co., of New York, which has operated Kline's since 1958, said the decision to close the Kansas City operation was made because of substantial losses over the past few years. He said closing of the three Kansas City units would eliminate losses to City Stores of about half million dollars a year.

William N. Smith, acting head of the Kansas City operation, said the city's economy was a major factor in the decision.

Boom in Rat Population Predicted

WASHINGTON (AP) — Officials of the two-year-old federal rat control program point to marked successes in some cities but believe a nationwide rodent population boom is underway, even in the suburbs.

"My impression, based on scattered and fragmented reports, is that the rat population is on the rise," said Robert E. Novick, head of the Bureau of Community Environmental Management.

"And this means not only in central cities but in the suburbs now."

Paradoxically, the small $15 million-a-year control program has reduced rat incidence an average of 25 per cent in target areas of 17 cities surveyed so far, Novick said in an interview.

The reduction since 1969 is as high as 80 per cent in such cities as Buffalo, N.Y. and Charlotte, N.C. But two cities, Atlanta and New York, registered increased rat populations despite the program.

The government estimates there are 14,000 cases of rat bite a year in the nation; many thousand cases of infectious disease spread by rats; and innumerable electrical fires caused by rats chewing through wires.

In saying the rodent danger appears to be spreading to once-immune suburbs officials gave these examples:

Some homeowners in affluent Montgomery County, Md., near Washington, say they have heard rats in the walls; the New York City suburb of Nassau County reports a tripling of rat complaints recently; 41 suburbs in Pennsylvania applied last year for antirat money.

A total of 25 cities are receiving federal aid for rat control programs in selected neighborhoods.

Progress reports available on 17 cities show the overall rate of buildings with evidence of rat infestation has dropped from 16 to 12 per cent in two years, Novick said.

The figures, however, increased from 8 to 18 per cent in New York City and from 23 to 26 per cent in Atlanta, he said. Both cities experienced lengthy garbage strikes.

Nixon Calls on College Heads to Enforce Reason

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon has sent a personal letter to nearly 1,000 college presidents and administrators urging them to enforce "the rule of reason" rather than the "rule of force" on the nation's campuses.

The letter, released by the White House Sunday, includes a copy of a New York University professor's recently published article which uses many of the same arguments Nixon stated at Kansas State University last Wednesday on how to maintain campus order.

"The university is a precious national asset," Nixon wrote, "a place in American society where the rule of reason and not the rule of force must prevail. Those who cannot accept the rule of reason, those who resort to the rule of force have no place on a college campus."

Dr. Sidney Hook, NYU philosophy professor, wrote in the accompanying article that "American colleges and universities today face the gravest crisis in their history."

Hook suggests an eight-point outline for action to "preserve or restore" campus peace. He said the threat "is not academic unrest but academic disruption and violence which flow from substituting for the academic goals of learning, the political goals of action."

Lieutenant Nebel, who was selected for OTS through competitive examination, is a 1965 graduate of Thomas W. Kelly high school. He received his Bachelor of Science degree in 1970 from the University of Missouri at Rolla.

Community Nurse Arrives in City

50 Years ago
September 23, 1920

Miss Mary Munroe of St. Louis, the Community nurse for Sikeston, arrived Tuesday, and has begun her duties. She was secured for Sikeston by the local Red Cross chapter. She will do much of her work through the public school children, believing that in this way she can help prevent much disease and the suffering caused by it. Miss Munroe is staying at the home of Miss Mag Tanner, corner Center street and Kingshighway.

Sikeston became further interested in the chautauqua last week by the fact that one of her young ladies, Miss Ruth Crowe, joined the Landis Singing Orchestra, which furnished the last program of the series of 10 given in Sikeston. Miss Crowe is the daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. H. P. Crowe and is a talented musician, being both a pianist and violinist of much ability. She left with the Landis company Monday and will be with them in lyceum work until the first of next year and possibly longer.

While practicing with the football squad at the Sikeston High School on Monday afternoon, Pleas Malcolm broke his left collarbone. His father, Dr. P. M. Malcolm, gave him immediate attention and the injury gives promise of healing rapidly. This is the first time that Pleas has been hurt playing football, although he has been in many severe contests during the past few years.

Miss Ruth McCoy expects to leave next Monday for Columbia, Mo., where she will enter the Stephens College.

HALLOWEEN
UNICEF EFFORTS
NOT JUST FOR LITTLE KIDS
By Lynn Todd

It won't be long before Halloween rolls around with its pumpkins, bobbing for apples, cider and trick or treating. But, trick or treating isn't what it used to be before millions of kids began collecting for UNICEF instead of begging for goodies. Some three and one -half million young people each year lend their efforts to collect funds to help less fortunate children around the world. And it isn't only the small fry who are participating.

In many areas the teen set, who normally would have long since given up the door -to -door routine, continue this activity exclusively to collect funds for UNICEF. As always, Halloween parties are popular, but the switch is to charity with the refreshments being donated and an admission charge going to the UNICEF fund. Another popular fund -raising device is a Halloween dance. Many times the music is supplied by a local group which donates its services, the hall is supplied free and the total take from the dance ends up on its way overseas to help the UNICEF cause.

Getting ready for a local drive takes a great deal of manpower. Collection boxes need to be assembled and distributed and the entire drive organized. In many communities these chores are undertaken by high school students who want to do their part even though they've passed the age of door -to -door trick or treating.

An interesting but frightening fact: the annual income of the United Nation's Children's Fund is less than the amount spent on world armament in two hours! Small wonder the high school set is active in finding ways to get involved in making each year's drive bigger than the previous year's.

Merchant Fleet And Delta Queen Gain Reprieves

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate has approved legislation which would give America's foundering merchant fleet an estimated $1 billion transfusion over the next decade.

The measure, passed 68-1 on a roll call vote Thursday, would authorize the construction of 300 ships in the next ten years. It also would give all shippers certain tax deferment privileges now enjoyed by only 13 federally subsidized shippers operating in foreign trade. The money saved would be used to build new ships.

The bill now goes to a conference with the House to iron out differences. The House passed a similar version earlier this year.

The bill permits continued operation of the river steamboat Delta Queen, the only stern-wheel passenger vessel with overnight accommodations operating in the United States. The provision exempts the Queen from a 1966 law that requires passenger vessels of more than 100 tons to be built of fire retardant material.

The Queen travels the Mississippi, Ohio, Tennessee and Cumberland rivers.

WINNER OF A 30-30 rifle is Vernon Ayers Jr., 1725 Oklahoma, who was presented the gun by Herman Hoffschneider, manager at Wal-Mart, center, as Larry White, assistant manager looks on. Ayers was one of 21 winners in all Wal-Mart stores in a Colorado Hunting trip contest. Names of the gun winners will be drawn next week for the free hunting trip.

If You Were the Judge

Man in Rented Boat Not Paying Passenger

By Jack Strauss, LL.B.

Howard was a fisherman who spent more time drowning worms than catching fish. On one occasion, however, he nearly drowned himself as well. He rented a rowboat, paddled out to the middle of a lake, reached out to pull in a fish and fell into the water. Fortunately, other fishermen were in the area at the time and they managed to rescue sputtering Howard from the drink.

For months thereafter, Howard suffered from the consequences of his prolonged dunking. Thus, he filed a claim to collect under an insurance policy that covered him for injuries received while a paying passenger on a railroad, ferry boat or other ship or boat."

"You weren't a paying passenger when you fell into the water," responded the insurance company. "You were captain of your own rowboat."

'No I wasn't," answered Howard. "I rented the boat And, the amount I paid was equivalent to a fare. Thus, even though I did my own rowing, I was a paying passenger on a boat and am entitled to collect under the policy."

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you permit the "dunked captain" to collect for his injuries under the insurance policy?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! The judge held that a passenger is generally regarded as being a person who is transported from place to place by another. In this case, noted the judge, Howard not only transported himself, but he hired the rowboat for fishing and not to be transported from one place to another.

More Taxpayers Than Ever Itemize

WASHINGTON (AP) — More taxpayers than ever before itemized their income tax returns this year, Internal Revenue Commissioner Randolph W. Thrower says.

Thrower told the Federal Bar Association that 36 million itemized returns were submitted for 1969, 4 million more than last year. They made up 47 per cent of the total returns.

School Levy Passes On Eighth Attempt

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Voting for the eighth time since March patrons of the Hickman Mills School District finally approved a school tax levy Friday, 8,032 to 2,087, a majority of 79 per cent. Two-thirds was required.

The levy of $5.58 was a compromise, down 28 cents from the figure submitted in the seventh election.

The district's schools have remained closed, but the school board had scheduled the opening for Sept. 21, regardless of the outcome of Friday's election. The district has about 15,000 students.

Three centuries after the assault on the North American wilderness began in 1607, the director of the Census of 1890 declared, "There can hardly be said to be a frontier line" remaining in the United States, The World Almanac notes. A long, unbroken line of unpopulated lands no longer separated settled areas from unsettled. The Census defined frontier as a large habitable area with a population of less than six per square mile.

There were 720,028 active aircraft pilots in the United States as of Dec. 31, 1969, The World Almanac notes. Major categories included 203,520 student pilots, 299,-491 private pilots, 176,585 commercial pilots and 31,-442 aircraft transport pilots.

Dry California Raked by Fires

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — Dozens of homes lay in ashes in the exclusive Berkeley Hills area today from the worst of a rash of fires that erupted up and down hot, dry California.

Offacials would not estimate the damage here but said it was the worst East Bay fire since 1923, when a major blaze caused a $10 million property loss.

Fire officials reported 37 homes destroyed and 12 damaged Tuesday as flames roared over more than 200 acres east of the University of California.

In West Los Angeles, a $40,000 hillside home was destroyed and several others threatened for a time by a wind-whipped brush fare in winding Beverly Glen Canyon.

Other fires burned brush and trees across the state.

The Berkeley fire began as a blaze in some grass on the east side of a ridge behind the city.

Within eight minutes it was roaring over Grizzly Peak Boulevard and licking down into heavily wooded canyons, destroying exclusive homes nestled among the trees and burning out the cable to radio station KPFA-FM, putting it off the air.

Some residents saved their homes with garden hoses as the flames, licking through accumulations of pine needles and eucalyptus leaves, were fanned by gusty winds.

Other homeowners were evacuated by firemen converging on the tinder-dry area from nearby communities. So were 400 children from two elementary schools.

Some 300 regular firemen fought the sprawling, leaping blazes, which took six hours to bring under control.

Oakland fire officials said there was some possibility of arson, since there had been two earlier fires in the area.

In Los Angeles, more than 150 fire fighters, aided by four helicopters, contained a blaze after it burned for three hours across about 50 acres of steep terrain.

Two firemen were seriously burned when their truck caught fire en route to the blaze.

In Riverside County, about 300 men from the U.S. Forest Service and California Division of Forestry battled a fire in heavy brush in Bedford Canyon, about five miles southwest of Corona.

By Tuesday night, the flames had charred between 400 and 500 acres, a spokesman said. No structures were threatened and no injuries were reported.

In San Diego County, a 140acre brush fire burned out of control in Wildcat Canyon, 30 miles east of San Diego.

Downpours Drive Many From Homes

Flooding waters closed roads, covered lowlands and drove some residents from their homes after two days of hard rains of seven inches or more in eastern Kansas and over much of Missouri.

The downpours eased off to light rain early today and several swollen streams began to recede, although others were reported still on the rise or cresting.

A six-inch rainfall in the mettropolitan Kansa City area forced evacuation of some residents along the Little Blue, Little Platte and Fishing rivers. The Blue River was receding after reaching 32.7 feet.

The state Boating Commission sent six men and boats from Jefferson City for use in the evacuation of residents at Smithville and Mosby on the Little Platte, expected to crest at 35 feet today.

A major flood was reported developing on the Marais des Cygnes River from Osawatomie to La Cygne in eastern Kansas.

At Pleasant Hill, Mo., southeast of Kansas City, Big Creek went out of its banks and threatened to isolate the Cass County community if it rose any higher. Several residents left their rural homes to stay with friends intown.

About 50 inmates and two guards were isolated by high water from a creek on a prison farm of the Kansas State Penitentiary at Lansing. Prison officials said the men were in no danger, and had food, water and electricity available.

A trailer home was demolished by a tornado that struck during a heavy rainstorm five miles west of Urbana, Mo., near the Pomme de Terre Reserfoir Tuesday. A man inside the trailer suffered minor injuries. There were no other reports of damage.

River forecasters said no danger of major flooding was foreseen on the Kansas and Missouri rivers.

A charge of disorderly and intoxicated condition brought a 30 day jail term to James Presson. Franklin Henry Jones was sentenced to 10 days in jail for having no operators license.

Lloyd Wayne Haynes and Vernon Eugene Fowler, each charged with possession of intoxicating beer -minors —were both fined $54.25 and given ten day jail sentences.

Callene Davis pleaded innocent to a charge of common assault and trial date was set for Thursday. The defendant was released on own recognizance.

Judge Brown levied $16 fines to John Sawyer and Hayden Vickery, Jr., each charged with violation ofthe wild life code.

Speeding charges brought a $23 fine to Donald Harris Bailey and a $25 fine to Bobby Roy Pratt.

Harold Benny McCormick paid a $26 fine for careless and imprudent driving — following too close and caused minor accident. A $21 fine was assessed Kenneth J. Woods on a similar charge.

A $21 fine was levied Robert Lee Combs for driving while license was suspended. Jimmy W. Moore, charged with no operators license -involved in accident, was fined $22 and given a ten day jail sentence. The jail sentence to be suspended upon payment of fine. The defendant failed to pay the fine and court costs and was committed to jail.

Judge Brown dismissed a charge of common assault against Richard Wilson and court costs were certified to Mississippi County.

A $21 fine was assessed Franklin Dee Brown for no reciprocity on license — failed to have a Missouri cab card.

Judgement was found for the plaintiff, Key Loan Co. in a note suit brought against Steven and LaDonna Mathis, to recover $181.35 principal, $18.30 interest, together with $9 costs.

In an account suit brought by Delta Loan and Finance Co. against Bobby Gammons, judgement was found for the plaintiff to recover a total of $725.19 at 6% interest from date of judgement, plus costs of $10.

Thomas Waltrip, M.D., was awarded judgement in an account suit brought against Glen and Mamie Ledbetter. The plaintiff is to recover $106 at 6% interest from date of judgment, together with $10.50 costs.

Duties in Washington, D. C. have raised a question whether U. S. Sen. John Tower, Texas Republican, will be on hand at a meeting scheduled at the Ramada Inn for tonight.

Tower was scheduled to appear with John Danforth, Republican, who is seeking to unseat Missouri's U. S. Sen. Stuart Symington, a Democrat, in the November election.

Republican leaders were awaiting word today whether Tower can attend. The Function begins at 7:30 p.m.

A substitute speaker will take Tower's place if he cannot attend.

Senate Adopts Stiff Auto Emission Curbs

WASHINGTON (AP) — With no dissenting votes, the Senate has passed restrictive air pollution control legislation that could mean radical change or death for the internal combustion engine.

The bill, which could have a profound eventual impact on the American economy and life style now faces a severe challenge from a House-Senate conference called to forge one new law from two sharply differing bills.

The House earlier passed a bill considered weaker than the Senate version written by the air and water pollution subcommittee of Sen. Edmund S. Muskie, D-Maine.

The House resisted efforts earlier this year to clamp curbs on noxious emissions of the automobile, branded by Muskie a "pollution monster."

The Senate bill, passed 73-0, is keyed solely to steps needed to protect the public health. It sets a series of deadlines over a five year period in which national air quality standards would be set and enforced.

And it specifically authorizes stern enforcement tools: Criminal penalties of up to two years in jail and $50,000 fines, the banning of autos in the central cities, authority to close factories emitting hazardous substances after the deadline, and a requirement that all new facilities with the potential to foul the atmosphere be constructed with the latest pollution-control devices.

By far the most controversial section of the Senate bill was that dealing with automobiles.

The bill orders auto manufacturers to begin mass production of cars emitting 90 per cent less pollutants than at present by no later than Jan. 1, 1975.

Failure to comply could result in the closings of production lines.

A one year extension of the deadline could be permitted by the secretary of health, education and welfare on receipt of positive proof that after expending every effort in good faith, the manufacturers could not meet the earlier date.

Representatives of the auto firms have complained that they presently don't know how to build effective control devices.

Muskie has said that enactment of the bill would force companies to try to produce the technology to meet the deadline. And, for the first time, to consider seriously the feasibility of alternatives to the internal combustion engine.

125 Cases Cited of U. S. Forces Sent Abroad by President

WASHINGTON (AP) — Officials cite more than 125 instances throughout U.S. history in which the President sent armed forces abroad without a declaration of war or a congressional authorization.

The cases, dating back to the early years of the republic, range from the undeclared war against France in 1798-1800 to the incursion into Cambodia last April.

Among instances in recent years are the dispatch of U.S. troops to Lebanon in 1958, to Thailand in 1962, the airlift rescue of foreigners from the Congo in 1964 and the landing of U.S. forces in the Dominican Republic in 1965.

Labor Council Endorses 138 Demos, 18 GOPs

ST. LOUIS (AP)— Delegates to the Missouri state Labor Council Tuesday endorsed 138 Democratic and 18 Republican candidates for state and national offices.

Sen. Stuart Symington, a Democrat, was endorsed along with eight of the nine incumbent Democratic congressmen. The council made no recommendation for the 6th District, represented by Democrat W.R. Hull Jr.

Among the favored Republicans were state Rep. R. J. King of Clayton, minority leader in the Missouri House.

State Sen. Earl Blackwell of Hillsboro, who led a successful campaign to defeat a state income tax increase supported by labor elements, was not endorsed.

Delegates adopted a resolution calling for public acquisition of all private transit companies in the state and opposing additional fare increases by the BiState Transit System of St. Louis.

Glance At Poetry

By Charles Francis Brady

FALLING RAIN

Raindrops fall to earth below blessing the land with seed to grow washing clean the worldly woes.

Raindrops patter on the sill falling, falling- until the thirsting earth has drank its fill.

Causing tiny riverlets to flow all living things its grace to know with benediction of arched rainbow.

-Marie Rouse,
St. Louis County

THE HOUSE ON THE MOUND

Time was I lived where I could smell the fresh turned earth and hear the sputtered sound of tractors turning 'round.

They spoke the news of happy busy men whose muscles reveled in the tasks of plows and soil and seed.

They spoke of tanned strong sons with hearty appetites for food and fun and joy, and pretty daughters bustling 'round with work and song and dreams of men they'd call their own, who might one day be knocking at their door.

The sounds of spring were children playing hard and long, with sturdy legs and long tied braids and white cropped heads and squeals of happiness and glee.

The quickened life brought pups and calves and kittens too, and fish that jumped and splashed across the road as bayou's yield crawled out on logs and banks to sun themselves awhile.

And neighbors passed and got savored sight and smell of jonquils, trees and air, and fresh washed clothes and gasoline, and looked to see the big house on the mound whose wide green lawn displayed so sure the care and deep content and family joy.

And friends and folks dropped in to share the time of day, and stayed to join the hearty fun that followed as the clock turned twelve and the busy stove gave up its meal, its bounteous, sumptuous meal for one or all.

My breath stands till as I recall the faces dear the shouts of joy, the carefree days when love was all my children dear, their mates of love and babes of theirs were all my own.

And once again as jonquils bloom and earth is turned and skies are blue, and breezes blow across the land, and tractors hum and fields are full,

I live again the life I had, I love again the man I had, who walked with me at close of day, and showed with pride his rows so straight, and told his plans of work so great and showed his love for God and me.

you know it's time within your mind
to work for peace.
A strong man

with inner sight
you set things right for our country.

Sing a song for America

And you see we are free
in this country
you get things done
but some make fun
because of fear.
They don't know that you show a way to grow with justice fair
for all to share

While an Army master sergeant he became interested in Red Cross work. He has accumulated four medals. All are Campaign Stars from World War II.

He is a graduate of Kemper Military Academy and has a Bachelor of Science degree in Journalism from Ohio State University in Columbus, Ohio. A native of Mt. Vernon, Ohio, his wife is a native of Blytheville. He has two daughters, one is a sophomore in college, and the other works with the Armed Forces Network Headquarters in Frankfort, Germany.

The theme for the coffee was a Special Activities Fair. Everyone had the chance to visit each table and learn about the activities that are offered by the OWC. Activities represented included: the Red Cross, bridge, bowling, golf, crewel embroidery, Gourmet Club, and Treble Clef.

Some of the new activities are knitting, sewing, antiquing, crocheting, flower arranging, ceramics, garden club, Christmas decorating and great books. Also represented was the Ways and Means Committee attended by Mrs. Robert Simpson.

The Girl and Boy Scouts were represented and are in need of scout leaders. Anyone interested should contact Mrs. James Wagner or Mr. Earl Flodin for further information.

The Youth Center has dance classes, baton classes, flag football and basketball slated. The Very Little Theater needs workers for the play ''Oklahoma!'' Anyone interested should contact Mrs. Gary Blackwell.

Mrs. Harry Farrar was taking names for volunteer workers for Family Services. The organization welcomes new families to the base and attempts to make transitions easier.

The Protestant Women of the Chapel and the St. Anne's Guild were also represented. Their purpose is to enlist women to work with the Chapel. Arts and Crafts had a very interesting display and Mrs. Mona Dougherty answered questions about the various forms of art. The activities fair was a huge success and everyone working on it should be congratulated.

Coffee and soft drinks were served with assorted doughnuts, and representatives were available to answer questions and sign the women up for classes, or as volunteers.

Mrs. Kent Brown made the following annuncements. The by- laws are posted and will be voted on at the September luncheon. MALDEN — Corporal Morris P. Graves has been awarded the Bronze Star Medal for meritorious service while serving with the U.S. Marine Corps in the Republic of Vietnam.

Graves was seriously wounded August 26, while participating on a squad size combat patrol in Vietnam as a rifleman with Company D, 1st Battalion, 7th Marine, 1st Marine Division, Fleet Marine Force. For his meritorious actions while on the patrol, Cpl. Graves was awarded the Bronze Star Medal, accompanied by a Presidential Citation. The citation, in part, read:

"For Meritorious Service in connection with combat positions against the enemy in the Republic of Vietnam from June 5, 1970 to August 26, 1970. Throughout this period Cpl. Graves performed his duties in an exemplary and highly professional manner, demonstrating exceptional leadership and initiative; he worked tirelessly to expeditiously accomplish all assigned tasks, and consistently provided his command with outstanding support, participating in numerous patrols and ambushes plus Operation Pickens Forrest. This outstanding Marine, while patricipating on a squad size patrol, was seriously injured on August 26. Although painfully wounded, this exceptional marine displayed uncommon courage as he verbally encouraged his fellow Marines to continue their mission. Cpl. Grave's sustained courage, aggressiveness and leadership served to inspire all who observed him, and upheld the highest traditions of the Marine Corps and the United States Naval Service."

Young Joggers Have Goal of 500 Miles

MULLINVILLE, Kan. (AP)— A group of elementary and junior high school children here is expected to rack up 500 miles each in the "Mullinville 500" by the end of the school year — and it's all on foot.

Students in grades five through eight may, on a voluntary basis, enter the 500 and jog under the direction of Ken Harris, a physical education instructor.

Harris said the program began near the end of school last year and is meant to continue through grade school into high school if the student is interested enough.

Some jogging is done during gym classes but a great deal is done two nights a week after school when, under supervision, a student can run for any time up to one hour.

Two students have jogged more than six miles in one evening and several have gone over five. Two eighth graders and one seventh grader had racked up more than 50 miles by Sept. 11, when Harris posted the week's "top 10."

After 500 miles?

"My hopes are that some will tackle 1,000," Harris said.

Spaced Objects Found in U.S. May Be Russian

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y. (AP)—U.S. Ambassador Charles W. Yost announced that four metal space objects recovered recently in the United States are believed to be of Soviet origin.

The objects, possibly fragments of the Soviet Cosmos 316 satellite, were found impacted in the earth in the Southwest and Midwest around the time Cosmos 316 was scheduled to re-enter the atmosphere.

In a letter to Secretary-General U Thant, Yost said the Soviet Union had been notified of the discoveries and that, if Soviet representatives confirm the identification, the metal fragments will be handed over to them.

This procedure is called for in the international agreement on the Rescue of Astronauts and Return of Objects Launched into Outer Space.

Yost announced the recovery of the first three objects in Texas, Oklahoma and Kansas on Sept. 11. In the letter he disclosed that a fourth object had been found ''in the Middle West region'' Aug. 28. The size and nature of the fragments were not reported.

Despite its northerly location, Iceland has a relatively mild temperature range. The effect of the Gulf Stream causes less than one-eighth of the nation to be ice-covered year-round, The World Almanac notes. The capital, Reykjavik, has an average temperature of 30 degrees during January and an average of 52 degrees in July.

Malden School Enrollment Rises

MALDEN — The Malden R-1 School District opened the 1970- 71 school term Thursday, August 27, with a total enrollment of 1765 students. The figure is an increase in enrollment of 24 students over the opening enrollment of 1741 for last year; and last year showed an increase enrollment of 128 students.

A breakdown of the enrollment shows a total of 890 for the elementary department; 113 for the kindergarten; and 762 for the junior and senior high departments.

Class enrollment for the opening day was: Kindergarten, 113; Special Education, 22; 1st Grade, 165; 2nd Grade, 133; 3rd Grade, 128; 4th Grade, 138; 5th Grade, 180; 6th Grade, 123; 7th Grade, 139; 8th Grade, 137; Freshmen, 134; Sophomores, 126; Juniors, 122; and Seniors, 104.

Total enrollment is expected to reach a minimum of 1795 within the next few weeks, as new students continue to be enrolled since the opening date.

Crowded classroom conditions continue to be the main problem for the Malden R-1 School District, due to the lack of classrooms available. A breakdown of the number of students in each classroom for the elementary department, shows the smallest classes contain 25 students each; and the number increases accordingly up to a total of 32 students in one class of the 6th grade. Two other classes in the 6 th grade have 31 students each, and the fourth class has 29 students. The five 5th grade classes have 30 students. The most acute problem, however, is in the junior high department where there are 139 students in the 7th grade and 137 students in the 8th grade.

STRENGTH FOR THESE DAYS from The Bible

Whither shall I go from thy Spirit?—(Psalms 139:7).

When we are faced with a troubling situation, prayer can help us realize the loving presence of God which dispels worry and fear. Prayer not only sustains us; it also sustains those for whom we pray. A prayer that places our loved ones in God's care blesses them with the protection and guidance they need.

Here's How

Buying a House? Calculate Your Net Worth

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Many young people want to buy homes but they are discouraged for many reasons. Newer estimates of house indebtedness stresses that the price of the house should be no more than one and one half times the annual income. If a young man makes $10,000 a year, he would have to find a $15,000 house.

But this rule of thumb doesn't necessarily apply to everyone, points out William M. Laas in the pocketbook, "Lawyer's Title Home Buying Guide."

"If you earn $10,000 a year, it might well be true that you could afford only a $15,000 house, but it is equally true that you could afford a $30,000 house. So much depends on how much cash you can raise for a down payment, how long the mortgage runs and at what rate of interest, whether you normally live within your income or splurge on cars or clothes or a boat . . . how much you are in debt . . . your future prospects in your job . . . and any number of other factors . . ."

He points out that the 1 1/2 times annual income estimate used by the government "lumps together all kinds of people in all kinds of circumstances in all geographical areas. The differences in their ways of life are enormous."

When you seek money from a lender, he will think of you as an individual risk, not in general terms.

Laas suggests that the best way present rent or housing expenses.

To calculate your "net worth" to determine where you stand financially, you must determine the sum of your assets minus the sum of your liabilities. Here are some things to look for:

Cash — in the bank or in your wallet or in the cookie jar.

Life Insurance — the cash value of it.

Securities or other investments that may be converted into cash.

Automobile — At current resale price as a used car.

Personal Property — jewelry, fur coat, stamp collection, things that may be readily sold.

Real Estate or anything else you might own.

The total is what you own.

You also must make a list of what you owe. Such things as installment loans on appliances, furniture, clothing or personal loans (Put down what remains to be paid.)

Charge accounts, unpaid bills including utility bills, newspaper delivery, rent, milkman, doctors or dentists bills should be listed.

Laas points out that if you come out on the plus side, your good management will impress the money lender, but if you are heavily minus due to indebtedness, you may have some difficulty swinging a mortgage loan on a new house.

Extra or irregular income — bonus, overtime pay, wife's take home pay, and so on — provide you with a cushion for the building of savings, but you can't count on it for meeting daily expenses, he points out.

to determine how much you can afford for a home is to list how much of your income must go for other things. Whatever is left may be used for housing.

You can determine your potential by establishing your true income and your credit rating as the lender will see it. He will use a central rating bureau to determine your record for meeting payments on installment purchases, and so on, in your previous location. Laas cautions that if one is thinking of going into debt for a new car or color television, it might be well "to defer such indebtedness until you have acquired your new home . . ."

At least three facts will determine your credit rating:

1. Your true disposable income: This is your effective income or take home pay after taxes and other withholdings. It excludes irregular income such as bonuses or overtime, money from a sideline or windfalls of one sort or another. Your carrying charges on the house will be regular, so your income must be equally dependable.

2. Your fixed expenses and debts: This is roughly your cost of living, plus your financial obligations to repay borrowings or to carry installment purchases. If you have savings, it is a good sign that your living costs are under control

3. The cost of owning a home: What it will cost you to occupy the house you propose to buy, including not only the normal carrying charges but such items as repairs and gardening. The lender will compare this cost to your

Broken Candles Can Be Repaired

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—Carol wanted to know how to mend a broken candle to use again. I am a candle "bug" and like candles of all kinds. To mend a broken one, I light another candle (a stub will do) and let the melted wax fall on the broken crack, spread it a little to let the warm wax in so it holds good, then put a decorative ring of wax on the outside to hold it tight. If you are using a pair together, put a ring around the other candle so they match.—MRS. J. V. H.

DEAR POLLY—Whenever I hang wallpaper I also nail a strip of the paper up in the attic. If a patch is ever needed the paper in the attic will have faded to the same degree so it will match that on the wall perfectly.—CAROLINE

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—I have been sewing for some 20 years and feel quite comfortable with most problems. I do have trouble getting tracing paper and tracing wheel marks out of light-colored material. I just made a white polyester dress and the dots from blue tracing paper show through. What should I do? —MRS. W. L. C.

DEAR POLLY—Last week I found I was out of garbage bags but I did have a stack of old newspapers so I set my sewing machine for the longest stitch and made my own bags. Two thicknesses (more could be used) were folded, stitched together on three sides and one end left open. They cost nothing.—MRS. O. W.

DEAR POLLY—My mother asked me to make deviled eggs to take on a picnic. Mashing egg yolks with a fork seemed endless and then they were not smooth. I came up with the idea of putting the yolks through the potato slicer. It worked swell and was so quick.—LINDA

GOVERNMENT OF THE PEOPLE

Voters will go to the polls Nov. 3 in a statewide election on a proposed amendment to the Missouri Constitution which would grant full home rule powers to St. Louis County. A favorable decision on the proposition, which requires only a simple majority, is imperative to county progress.

There are many compelling reasons why home rule should be extended to St. Louis County. Improved efficiency of the overall governmental operation in the county heads the list.

In April, 1968, county voters sensibly decided to update the county's government with the adoption of a new Charter — one that modernized and simplified the structure through sweeping organizational changes. This machinery, however, has not been able to function at peak efficiency without home rule.

Lack of this functional authority has been described by political scientists as the fundamental weakness in county government County powers are restricted to the unincorporated areas, which include roughly only a third of the population but two -thirds of the land space.

A jurisdictional jungle has grown out of this disorganized arrangement, choking progress in a tangle of more than 150 separate units of government.

In addition to the county government, there are 95 municipalities, 26 school districts, 24 fire districts and several other special purpose districts.

Such fragmentation is responsible for governmental chaos. There are duplications of services, wholesale inefficiency, waste of tax funds and widespread confusion.

This jigsaw puzzle can best be solved by broadening the powers of the county government.

It is important to point out that home rule would not automatically grant additional authority to the county government. No existing municipal powers would be mechanically eliminated or usurped. Home rule simply would establish a workable county -municipal partnership.

Any changes in county or municipal services would require approval by a majority of St. Louis County voters.

The need for this partnership is becoming more and more obvious. In 1950 St. Louis County had a population of 406,000; by 1960 it had grown to 703,500. It is estimated that the 1970 census will show a population of over a million, and by 1990 it is predicted 1.5 million persons will be living within St. Louis County.

Such a rapid rate of growth — more than a quarter of a million every decade — requires a governmental structure flexible enough to cope with change.

Home rule would be the means to consolidate functions, avoid overlapping, effect economies in administration. Citizens could be provided services on the most efficient basis possible.

Home rule has bipartisan endorsement at top party levels. Some small -time politicians may oppose the plan — knowing it might foreclose on their own little fiefs where they try to play king — but they are a minority.

The chief enemy of the proposed constitutional amendment is misunderstanding. If the proposal fails, clearly it will be due to confusion over what home rule actually provides.

This must not happen. Hopefully the statewide citizens campaign just launched, headed by St. Louis County banker James R. James Jr., will prove successful in educating voters to the merits of home rule.

As James said, in accepting the responsibility for explaining home rule to Missouri citizens, "I am convinced that the amendment places the decision -making power for local governmental services where it belongs — in the hands of the people."

This is what voters must remember on election day.

What's Wrong With Televisio

By ART BUCHWALD

I was talking the other da with a friend and we got arou to the question of what w wrong with television. We bo came to the conclusion th everyone on TV was bei presented in a false light.

For example, on the lawy shows — Perry Mason and Th Defenders — no one ever asks f a fee. But in real life this what would happen: A woma comes into Perry Mason's offic She says, "My son has bee accused of a crime, but I kno he didn't do it."

Perry in real life would sa "Wait a minute, madam. Befo you go any further, I'll have t ask for a retainer."

"He's innocent," the lad says. "You've got to defen him."

"How much can you afford Legal costs are expensive. If h pleads guilty, I'll make a de with the district attorney an save you the expense of a lon drawn -out jury trial."

"But he wants to plead no guilty."

"Big deal," says Perry "They'll probably hang hi anyway and it will still cost yo $5,000."

"I guess you're right," th woman says. "Plead him guilty He's always getting into troubl anyway."

"That will $500 now an $500 at the start of the trial."

OR LET'S take Dr. Kildar

"Dr. Kildare," an elderl man says, "I have a pain in m side."

"I don't know anythin about pains in people's sides. I' send you to a specialist, D Renfrow."

"But besides my side, my le leg hurts."

"Why didn't you say so i the first place? Dr. Lavine is th best leg man in town. Tell him sent you."

"And it hurts when breathe."

"You need a good lung man After you see Dr. Lavine abou your leg, go over and see Dr Ordman about your chest."

"Thank you very much, Dr Kildare."

"Don't mention it. That wil be $10."

Perhaps the most famous san dune in American history is K Devil Hill on the Outer Banks North Carolina. The Wrig brothers learned to fly their glider from the top of this concrete-hard grass-covered dune before the made man's first powered flight December 17, 1903.

BIG STAR

makes it easy for you to own a famous encyclopedia.

Now you can have this handsome 25 volume

FUNK & WAGNALLS STANDARD REFERENCE ENCYCLOPEDIA

for only $1.89 per volume

We're so confident that you'll want the complete set after looking through just one volume, we're offering Volume No. 1 at the trial price of 25¢ with any $3.00 food purchase.

Pick up a volume or two each week when you shop.

The publishers of this encyclopedia came to us with a good idea. An idea so good, in fact, that we're happy to pass it on to our customers.

Just imagine owning a handsome family encyclopedia for only $1.89 a volume. Starting this week, we're offering the Funk & Wagnalls Standard Reference Encyclopedia at that remarkably low price. And to prove to you what a fine value this encyclopedia really is, we're offering Volume No. 1 at the trial price of 25¢.

Don't let the low price fool you:. This is a quality reference work in every sense of the word. The publishers called upon over 200 leading authorities, experts in their respective fields, including Nobel Prize winners, to help gather the information and to write the easily understandable text. It contains nearly 10,000 pages in 25 beautifully bound volumes. 7,000,000 words. 30,000 subjects. Over 5,000 pictures and illustrations. Plus a full-color World Atlas. It all adds up to a fine encyclopedia that can benefit every member of your family.

School-age children don't have to be coaxed to consult it frequently. They find new interest and excitement in study periods and their grades can improve noticeably. It's an excellent way to help your child work up to his full potential in school. Parents, too, find it useful and informative and often wonder how they ever did without it.

We won't quote the complete review by the Subscription Books Committee of the American Library Association*, but its final paragraph says:

"Because of its wide coverage of information in factual and clearly-written, well-illustrated succinct articles, and because of the convenience of its lightweight yet durable format, Funk & Wagnalls Standard Reference Encyclopedia is recommended for the purpose for which it is intended, that is, as a brief reference set, especially for home and family use."

The Funk & Wagnalls Standard Reference Encyclopedia can be offered at such an exceptionally low price because it's sold through supermarkets. In fact, the publisher has already sold more than 100 million encyclopedia volumes to smart families through supermarkets across the country.

Stop in today and see what the excitement is all about. Volume No. 1 is on sale right now. Pick up a volume or two each week when you shop and in no time at all you'll have the complete 25-volume set.

*Complete review by Subscription Books Committee of the American Library Association, July 1, 1962, available on request

It's everything you'd expect a good encyclopedia to be.

And it's not expensive.
